Good Wishes Not Enough for Weather

Boy Spots Distress Signal

Party Stranded in Boat As Winds Cancel Swim

Alderman Ashore, Rest Await Rescue

Six persons escaped injury and were rescued after a 40-foot cruiser crashed on a hidden reef off Dallas road, about 400 yards from the foot of Paddon street, at 11 last night.

After Alderman Don Smith rowed ashore from the wreck with an unidentified woman and landed on the beach about 11.30, rescue efforts were quickly organized.

Three other men and possibly another woman are believed to have been aboard.

Others identified were James Sewell, believed to be the owner; Roy Hills and Spencer Huston.

The party had intended following Thomas' swim flotilla for the early part of the Juan de Fuca Strait crossing, but struck the reef before they knew the swim had been cancelled.

At a few minutes before 1 a.m. the Water Tourist, with Capt. Hugh Evans, Thomas' navigator in charge, went alongside the stranded cruiser and took off the last of her party.

"But they're all off," the pilotage office confirmed.

A Colonist reporter could see four persons transferring from the cruiser to the Water Tourist. There was a stiff breeze and a considerable sea running at that time.

It was Gordon James, 13, 132 Dallas road, who first saw flashing signals from the grounded boat.

He climbed the steps from the beach, where he had been watching for Thomas' swim take-off and hailed a police car.

The alarm was flashed by radio to the pilotage office and Island Tug and Barge Limited Island Ranger was despatched to stand by and Pilot Boat No. 2 was diverted on her way in from Race Rocks.

Water Tourist effected the transfer of the four who remained on board under the lights of the pilot boat.

Because the rescue craft had no running lights, Island Ranger planned to escort her to Victoria harbor.

At press time identity of the two women in the party still was not available.

One Queen to Another

Newly-crowned Queen Mardi Campbell, seven, who reigned as first lady of the Shrine Bazaar held last night in the curling rink, graciously accepts a bouquet of flowers from Miss Victoria, Doreen Wells. She thanked Miss Wells and wished her good luck in the Miss Canada contest. Queen Mardi's escort was Gordon Callow, eight, impeccably tailored in tails and top hat. (See Page 17.)

RCMP Hold Bank Robber

Most-Wanted Criminal Captured In Stolen Fish Boat at Alert Bay

William Allen Babcock, one of Canada's most wanted criminals since his daring escape from Oakalla last March, was captured last night aboard a stolen boat at Alert Bay.

WILLIAM BABCOCK

It was reported from Campbell River that the 34-year-old bank robber was captured by the RCMP at 9.30 p.m.

IN CUSTODY

RCMP here said Babcock was taken into custody by the Alert Bay detachment after he reached there aboard the Sea Explorer, the $10,000 troller-type boat stolen from Bendickson Logging Company at Hardwick Island early this week.

Babcock became the object of an intensive manhunt when he escaped from Oakalla on a Sunday in March by walking out of the jail with a visiting choir.

Babcock was in Oakalla awaiting transfer to the B.C. Penitentiary. He had been sentenced to 20 years and 21 lashes for his part in a three-man $27,900 holdup January 13 of a Burnaby branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. The sentence was one of the heaviest in B.C. legal history.

REWARD

A painstaking search for the 34-foot Sea Explorer was launched this week when the Bendickson company offered a $300 reward for its recovery. All B.C. Airlines pilots flying over the islands out of Campbell River kept a constant lookout for the missing craft.

The boat was recovered by RCMP in Sullivan Bay, near Alert Bay.

Jim Bendickson said a man came to the logging camp May 2 in a speedboat, begging for gas for a trip to Alaska. When the Sea Explorer was stolen he immediately suspected this man of being the thief.

Eat Your Troubles Away

Fatigue, Pallor Mean Blood Lacks Strength

Those who are undernourished and don't realize it will find a guide to better health and greater vigor in "Eat Your Troubles Away," latest work by Lelord Kordel, researcher and lecturer on nutrition, appearing regularly in The Daily Colonist.

BY LELORD KORDEL

After a long, hard, trying day, you more or less expect an occasional feeling of "being beat." This is known as "normal fatigue." But when, after a leisurely week-end or holiday, you fail to recover your bounce—and this fatigue persists—you must investigate it.

Its causes vary. However, if your fatigue is accompanied by symptoms of skin pallor, you can in most cases point the finger of suspicion at anemia.

Unfortunately, most anemic persons do not have the slightest inkling of the real cause of their irking fatigue; and even those who are aware of their condition do not realize they can correct it by a few simple changes in their eating habits.

You might say that anemia is a modern disease. It has come with white-bread sandwiches and white sugar. The greatest causes of iron-deficiency anemia are the refined flours, the vitamin-robbed cereals, the denatured white sugars, and other devitalized products in fancy packages.

The "old-fashioned foods" kept normal adults supplied with the 4,000 milligrams of iron needed in the body. Over half of this amount is demanded by hemoglobin, the blood's red coloring matter. The rest of the iron is stored in the liver, spleen and bone marrow; it is a vital part of every body cell. The body's iron level is adjusted according to the manner and amount of iron absorption.

In a normal adult's bloodstream more than 7,000,000 red blood cells die, and must be renewed, every second.

So important a raw material is iron in the building of new cells that the body uses the iron of the red blood cells over and over again as an air-conditioning system utilizes its original water supply.

More Minerals

In addition to iron, healthy red blood cells demand proteins, the ever-important B vitamins, the minerals iodine, cobalt and copper.

You should eat lots of liver, but there are other ways of getting iron through your foods.

Parsley, which can be used to enrich salads, contains 19.21 milligrams of iron in about 100 parsley sprigs, the "bunch" you would buy in the grocery store.

Many popular foods are rich sources of iron. Mushrooms contain 16.10 milligrams per seven mushrooms; one small yam, 7.40 milligrams. Dried fruits are rich iron sources; one medium peach will provide 6.8 milligrams.

But none of these foods measure up to the 21.70 milligrams of iron found in one average piece of calf's liver. This food, by the way, can be made very palatable and nourishing by taking it directly from the refrigerator, dotting it with butter, and broiling it.

These are iron-rich foods:

Animal origin—Liver of all kinds, lamb, egg yolks, heart, kidney, lean beef, dark poultry meat.

Vegetable origin—Apricots, unsulphured molasses, sunflower and millet seeds, peaches, prunes, artichokes, lettuce, whole-grain cereals, dried beans, dried peas, raisins, apples, beet tops, leeks, radishes, berries, corn, grapes, lemons, oranges, pineapple, whole rye, lentils, pumpkin, walnuts, onions, pears, pomegranates, currants.

Swim Halted At Last Moment

Bert Thomas called off his swim ten minutes before zero hour last night, after he was greased ready to go into the water, while thousands watched along the shore.

NO SOAP

The husky Tacoma swimmer was chatting with newsmen and telling them he wasn't nervous, when Dave Evans, brother of navigator Hugh Evans, burst into the tent and said: "Hugh says no soap, Bert."

"I'll try so hard I'll be sick," Bert said. "The people will say Thomas didn't have enough guts to go in the water, I think I'll go."

His friends crowded around him and advised the swimmer, "It's too rough. Captain Evans says it's too tough."

"He left it up to me," Bert replied. "It's pretty hard to decide in five minutes. I have waited four months."

NO ENCOURAGEMENT

He stepped out of the tent and stood in silence for about three minutes, dressed only in his trunks.

Not one person gave him any encouragement to make the swim, but plenty tried to talk him out of it.

"Well, I want to make it across. Captain Evans says it's off, so it's off. I haven't even seen the water today, but I can hear it, and it's rough." The waves were breaking on the shore just 10 feet away but the crowd was so thick Bert could not see the water.

"Better tell them it's all off. It's too rough. I don't think I will have a chance again for another four months."

A loud cheer went up from the crowd as Bert walked from the tent.

"You're chicken," one of the spectators shouted, but he was in the minority. Bert was angry at the charge.

"Don't worry, there isn't anyone readier than I am," Bert said. "Next time I come down here I hope nobody is here and I just go in."

His wife, Mary, was bitterly disappointed at the cancellation and sobbed as she climbed the bank laden with bottles and goose grease.

Bert said the swim attempts had cost him $5,000 since last fall, "and more than that if you count what I would have earned."

New Try In August

Bert Thomas told The Daily Colonist after his navigator's decision to call off the attempt to swim the Juan de Fuca Strait last night that he would try again in August.

"I'll do it," he said. "I'll do it yet."

Salk Critic Facing Trial

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A man who criticized Dr. Jonas Salk and his polio vaccine has been ordered to stand trial in federal court here.

Judge Emmett Choate Friday set June 27 for the trial of Duon Miller, a Florida cosmetics manufacturer, and Polio Prevention, Inc. Miller and the polio prevention group he heads were charged 13 months ago with sending "libellous, scurrilous and defamatory" postcards in the mails to oppose test shots of the Salk vaccine.

Molotov Pledges

Russia Will Join In Summit Talks

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Russia's V. M. Molotov promised at a dinner meeting with Western foreign ministers Saturday night that the Soviet Union will join in a Big Four power conference at the topmost level in an effort to reach an East-West settlement.

The so-called "meeting at the summit" would bring together President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Bulganin, British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Faure some time in the summer.

The four foreign ministers thus capped an accord reached earlier in the day when they approved in 80 minutes the text of a treaty restoring to Austria her freedom and independence after 17 years of occupation. It had taken 10 postwar years to negotiate the treaty.

An official British spokesman said early Sunday Molotov, U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay reached a "general agreement on the purposes and methods of operation" of the meeting at the summit.

The Western powers in a note last week suggested the meeting of Eisenhower, Bulganin, Eden and Faure.

The spokesman said Molotov probably will send a note — possibly this week-end — formally accepting the invitation.

The time and place have not yet been decided.

To the surprise of his colleagues, informants said, Molotov at no time pressed for Red China representation at the conference.

The four did not discuss an agenda for the meeting.

The four ministers agreed that if they are all present at the 10th UN birthday ceremonies being organized for late June in San Francisco they would discuss further arrangements for the conference.

Colonist Starts Fishing Contest

The Daily Colonist this year will inaugurate its King Fisherman contest, open to all residents of Vancouver Island.

The contest—offering valuable trophies with cash and merchandise prizes—aims at establishing official records for the largest fish caught each year in the categories of trout, tyee, coho and spring salmon.

Queen Crawls After Pins To Protect Royal Children

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II stars in a story told over tipped teacups in London this week:

A West End hatmaker dispatched a salesgirl to Buckingham Palace with a selection of summer beauties the Queen said she wanted to see. There was a slight delay, for Elizabeth at the moment was trying on dresses.

When she was eventually shown in, the salesgirl was startled to see the Queen crawling around on her hands and knees picking up pins.

"Come in, my dear," the Queen said. "You can't be too careful when you've got children around the house."

Accent on Homemaking

Wants Church Included

Lovely Sunday School Teacher Named Mrs. America

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Ramona Deitemeyer, a lovely blue-eyed blonde Sunday school teacher, PTA president and mother of five became Mrs. America of 1956 Saturday.

Her voice trembling with excitement, one of the first things Mrs. Deitemeyer said was:

"I want the title to mean two things: First that the job of homemaking will be kept on a terrifically high plane and next that my church can be part of the title."

Mrs. Deitemeyer teaches the second grade Sunday school class in Christ Lutheran Church of her home town of Lincoln, Neb., where her husband, Carl, edits the Nebraska Farmer Magazine and is chairman of the church congregation.

For the first time in the 17 years of the Mrs. America contest there was no bathing suit competition. It was all homemaking.

The 35-year-old winner proved her homemaking skill to the judges even before she was picked as America's No. 1 housewife by winning two preliminary awards; one for the best dinner menu and the other for keeping the neatest and cleanest vila along Mrs. America drive.

Six entrants made the finals.

When the public address system boomed out the word all had been waiting for, the ones that meant $15,000 worth of prizes to the winner, Mrs. Deitemeyer's knees weakened and she almost slumped down. But attendants quickly led her to a red carpet to the throne on the stage built on the ocean beach.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A UNIVERSITY graduate was listed in the paper as "Bachelor of Rats." He majored in zoology, maybe?

* * *

Of course the word should have been "Arts." Those printers are up to their old tricks. The other day I wrote a piece about an imaginary conversation that took place in the year 1995. But it came out as 1955.

* * *

That was a piece about an imaginary Strait swimmer who stuck around Victoria, waiting for good weather, until he was an old man—and still hoping. Haven't received any complaints from real swimmers about it. The column was all in fun, anyway.

In fact, I have nothing but admiration for Bert Thomas or any other swimmers who are brave enough to try such a massive task. They belong with the world's heroes. And whether they drink Martinis, milk or ginger ale, they are still brave people.

* * *

I used to think of myself as a strong contender for the title of "most absent-minded newspaper man." Once I got dressed in a hurry without using a mirror, and came to work wearing two ties.

Could anything be worse than that? Yes. Last Tuesday Ian Macdonald of this staff absently tore up his pay cheque instead of the stub. Then he spent some time laboriously piecing it together, jig-saw fashion, and pasting it on a sheet of copy paper. The bank cashed it, too.

* * *

Visit of that clairvoyante to Victoria reminded me of a narrow escape I once had. Some of you skeptics wouldn't think anything of it, but still.

In Colombo, Ceylon, a friend of mine made an appointment for me with a local fortune-teller of high reputation.

"This man is very good,' my friend said, "but he has one failing. Unless you stop him, he insists on telling you the date of your death. He has told a number of people, and in every case it has worked out."

"I don't think I'll stop him," I said. "I'll just let him go ahead and tell me."

But as fate would have it, the day when I was scheduled to go and see that fortune-teller, I became ill and had to enter hospital. I never had a chance to get in touch with the seer and cancel the appointment. But since he knew the future, he must have known I wasn't going to turn up.

In fact, I am probably well out of it. The date of your own death would be a heavy item of knowledge to carry around. Even if the date wasn't true, the mention of it would be demoralizing. It would make you feel like the man who had sold his soul to the devil.

And yet—if someone made the appointment for me again, I think I would try to keep it, through a kind of dismal twisted curiosity.

* * *

Roy Parrett, our television expert, doesn't believe in fortune-telling. Not the kind of fortunes you get from weighing-machines on those little cards, anyway.

A few years he weighed himself on a fortune-telling machine. He weighed 147 then—weighs some pounds more now.

On the little card it said: "You are a devoted wife and mother."

The Doctor's Viewpoint

Critics of Research Should Learn Facts

(This column is presented by The Colonist through the co-operation of the B.C. Medical Association. The author in each case is an authority on the field discussed, although professional ethics dictate that he remain anonymous.)

In a previous column reference was made to sincere but misguided members of society who take part in the continuing effort to obstruct scientific research. It should be strongly emphasized that the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals rarely takes part in such obstructive action. The society was founded years ago in a laudable effort to prevent cruelty to domestic animals, work animals, pets and performing animals in carnivals and circuses, and to render more humane the trapping and killing of wild animals.

No right-minded citizen could in good conscience object to such genuinely humanitarian activity. The SPCA, in many university centres, has taken steps to satisfy itself that research animals are not mistreated in any way and that they render a real service to mankind.

Once satisfied on these points, the society has co-operated and has agreed that the universities should receive enough animals to carry on their work. In Edmonton, to take one recent example, it has been found necessary each month to destroy numbers of stray animals even after the medical school has received its quota.

This is a constructive attitude; it safeguards the welfare of defenseless animals and at the same time recognizes that research scientists must be able to go on with the work that has made our lives longer and healthier.

Unhappily, individual members of the society and other sincere people have at times allowed themselves to be enlisted in the campaign against medical science. They have allowed themselves to be persuaded that research involving experimental animals is cruel and unnecessary; that the ends do not justify the work.

These citizens owe it to themselves and to their communities to arm themselves with the facts.

SEE FOR THEMSELVES

They can learn the truth about research in a visit to any university research centre. They can see the animals, well fed and well housed. They can see operations carried out under proper anesthesia and can assure themselves that each operation plays its part in solving a problem related to human health.

In any good library they can find out what medical science has done for all of us. They can learn how malaria, smallpox, diphtheria, yellow fever and a host of other once-dreaded diseases have been all but banished from our Canadian lives. They can see the painstaking work that goes on, day and night, to add cancer and heart disease to the list of conquered diseases.

They can visit the old cemeteries to see the rows of tiny crosses that tell of story of children struck down in the 19th century before they could begin to live. They can find in the library the reasons why our children no longer die of those diseases.

They can do more; they can turn to examine carefully the people with whom they have been keeping company in this strange war against research and public health measures. In the long run this is a war against your health and mine and and against the health of our children.

The people who wage this strange war, apart from the sincere people we have been talking about, seem to fall into three main groups.

SOME DO WORSE

Across the nation, a variety of people sell or promote health foods that may or may not have any influence on health. Some of these foods have been sold with the promise that they will prevent tooth decay. Since most of these foods are carbohydrates they can virtually be guaranteed to accelerate, not retard, tooth decay. If the people who sell these products have a genuine interest in the prevention of dental decay they can learn the exact facts of the matter from the men and women who know what they are talking about.

They can obtain full and accurate information by the simple device of a letter to the offices of the Canadian Dental Association.

Many of these people may be entirely sincere in their beliefs. It is hard to speak with equal charity of the people who sell "cures" that do not cure. They are not likely to need our charity in the literal sense; many of them have amassed fortunes selling worthless concoctions to desperate sufferers from incurable disease. Yet a good many of these have spear-headed campaigns against public health measures in the past.

A second group seems to be made up of people who welcome publicity, no matter in what cause. Some of these, in one part of the country and another, have been elected to public office on the theory that they would attend to the public interest. The principle of democracy allows for wide differences in belief and action. It most certainly does not properly allow for active participation in a campaign against a proven and desirable health measure such as fluoridation by lurid warnings against fluoride poisoning.

The University of Toronto will be happy to assure critics of fluoridation that iodine, boron and manganese, to name only a few metals, are poisonous if taken in large quantities but that a trace of each is absolutely essential to health and to existence itself.

Critics can be further reassured that one part of fluorine in 1,000,000 parts of water cannot be toxic unless 10,000 glasses are consumed at a sitting.

In the third group belong a few unfortunate people whose delusions bring them frighteningly close to the borders of insanity. To these persons the world is a hostile and terrifying place. One of their means of giving battle against the fancied hostility lies in opposition to organized activity; even to a measure designed to promote human health and happiness.

RIGHT TO SUFFER

When a community decides to chlorinate its water these people feel that their rights have been trampled on. They do not accept the fact, as their more sensible fellow citizens do, that germs cause disease and that water once carried disease and death to tens of thousands of Canadians each year.

They demand their rights, although at times those "rights" would involve renewed risk of disease to all their fellow citizens.

They deserve our sympathy but they hardly deserve our co-operation when the health of our children is at stake.

Yet people suffering from delusions have held up scientific progress in the past and they are doing their full share to obstruct it today. They have written some of the pamphlets you are urged to read and believe in. They pose as scientific authorities and they have been widely quoted by others who fight against research and public health measures.

Councillors To Hear Letters on Substation

New developments in the B.C. Electric Co. substation and overhead lines controvesy in Saanich may come out of Monday's Saanich council meeting.

A by-law to provide for rezoning a site in the Lake Hill district near Borden avenue is scheduled for final reading at the council meeting; but before it is considered letters will be read from the Saanich solicitor and the BCE.

Coun. Leslie Passmore is expected to make a last-ditch stand to force at least part of the high-voltage transmission lines underground. He hopes the BCE letter will contain a compromise offer.

Saanich Voters' Association has decided not to seek an injunction against the project, P. D. Bragg, president, said last night. The association has not yet decided whether it will seek an inquiry under the Municipal Act into Saanich council's conduct with regard to the handling of the BCE substation controversy.

Coming Home

DR. JOHN R. LeHUQUET

When he receives his degree in medicine Monday at UBC, Victoria-born Dr. John LeHuquet will pack his bag and come home. He will intern at Royal Jubilee Hospital, where he was born 27 years ago. A Monterey and Oak Bay High School boy, Dr. LeHuquet graduated in pharmacy at UBC in 1950.

Reunion Slated May 21

Veterans of the Seventh Battalion from Island points and Vancouver will attend a reunion here May 21, 40 years after the battalion's action-packed second year of the First World War.

The Seventh fought at the second battle of Ypres in 1915, when the battalion's commander Lt.-Col. Hart McHarg, was killed during the defence of St. Julien.

During the war the battalion saw action in such famous battles as the Somme, Passchendaele and Vimy Ridge.

The Seventh was formed in 1914 from B.C. militia units, including 88th Battalion Victoria Fusiliers, 6th Duke Connaught's Own Rifles, Westminster Regiment, Rocky Mountain Rangers and 11th Irish Fusiliers.

Reunion will be held in McEwen's Dining Room, starting at 7 p.m.

Those wishing to attend are asked to notify Jack Davey, 680 Oliver street.

India Accepts Talks Invite

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India has announced she accepts Lebanon's invitation to attend a Middle East economic conference opening in Beirut May 25.

Rembrandt Faces X-Ray

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Rembrandt's "Claudius Civilis" is to get an X-ray examination. The National Museum, like a lot of art lovers, wants to know why a floating sword mars the 1661 masterpiece. Details of the weapon began emerging about a century ago. Aware Rembrandt may have done the painting over an old picture, the museum ordered an X-ray probe. It's expected to take six months.

Garden Notes

Give Trees Plenty of Food

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Feeding Fruit Trees (C. E. R., Saanich)—It will help your established fruit trees a great deal if you give them a substantial dressing of an all-purpose fertilizer such as O.K., Gardenite, or regular Vigoro—not Golden Vigoro, which is for lawns. The trees will take as much as a cupful per square yard of root run, measuring out to the farthest extent of the branches, where the most active feeding roots are located.

In addition to the fertilizer, the stone fruits—the cherries, plums, peaches and apricots—should be given a similar amount of pulverized limestone, scratched into the surface soil.

A steady supply of moisture is essential, but rather than frequent watering, I prefer with small trees to secure this condition by mulching heavily. This conserves the moisture already in the soil, which is important, as alternate periods of dry and wet can lead to cracked and misshapen fruit, and premature fruit fall.

* * *

Pruning Laurel Hedge (J. L. O., Victoria)—A laurel hedge is best trimmed twice a year, in May and September. Never use the hedge shears on laurel, as this would leave a lot of leaves cut in half, which would turn brown, spoiling the appearance of the hedge. Instead, use secateurs and prune, rather than clip the hedge.

* * *

Ground Cover for Shade (A.S.R., Victoria)—One of the best ground covers for a shady place is periwinkle (Vinca minor), bearing pretty blue flowers throughout the summer. If you want something you can walk on, I suggest either Pussy Toes (Antennaria microphylla), which has silvery leaves and little white flowers, or Creeping Charlie (Nepeta hederacea), which gives off a spicy scent when it is crushed underfoot, and bears tiny blue flowers throughout the summer. I should warn you, though, that both Pussy Toes and Creeping Charlie are incorrigible gate-crashers, and unless you make them mind their manners, they will push their way by underground suckers into every part of your garden. A six-inch strip of sheet metal sunk sidewise into the ground will keep them in their place. Another way is to make a one-inch crack in the ground around the site with your spade, and fill it with neat sulphate of potash. Neither plant will cross this barrier.

* * *

Southern Collards (P.C.J., Oak Bay)—Collards are the "pot greens" featured on so many menus south of the Mason-Dixon line. We know them better here under the name of colewort. It is really a type of small cabbage which doesn't make a head but is loose, like leaf lettuce. These mild-flavored leaves are cooked like spinach, and contain quite a bit more minerals and vitamins than the blanched inside portions of ordinary cabbage. Seed sown now will keep your table supplied from October to Christmas.

* * *

Hydrangea Cuttings (P. B., Victoria)—This is about the best time of the year right now to take some hydrangea cuttings from your established shrubs. The soft, unflowered new shoots will root quite readily if you insert them in a bed of sandy soil and cover each one with a jam jar.

This is one of the very few cuttings which should NOT be trimmed off immediately below a joint. With hydrangeas, the roots form much better when the cut is made halfway between joints.

Take only strong, stocky shoots, avoiding any thin, drawn ones which have become spindly through overcrowding.

Granddaughter Of Poet Dies

New Hopes Raised Live, Let Live Deal Likely with Russia

LONDON (AP)—A week of history-making diplomatic moves raised new hopes last night for a "live and let live" agreement between Russia and the West.

The impression was general that the Soviet Union, facing up to the realities of growing Western strength, was ready for a breathing spell in the cold war.

Western diplomats had their fingers crossed, but in spite of this wariness the hope that an H-bomb war can be avoided was unequalled since the cold war.

Even news that Soviet Premier Bulganin will go to Yugoslavia late this month to see President Tito was being interpreted in most quarters as another step toward easing tension.

BREAK IN CLOUDS

As developments piled up during the week Prime Minister Eden declared:

"Although the difficulties are still real enough, we look forward with some confidence to a break in the international clouds."

The optimism came from a succession of Western diplomatic victories and Soviet concessions.

Russian Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov swiftly joined his Western counterparts in Vienna in approving a treaty that ends the occupation of Austria and sets the country free. The Russians had stalled on Austrian independence for 10 years.

While Austria celebrates independence, the Big Four foreign ministers will be talking about plans for a heads-of-state conference which the world hopes will lead to East-West understanding.

POWER BALANCE SHIFTS

The Russians move closer to the Western point of view on how to organize world-wide disarmament and agree with the Western idea for gradually eliminating nuclear weapons and reducing conventional forces.

But the Soviet still hedged on the key issue—how to arrange for close international inspection to insure against violations.

Flying Barrel Big Jolt

WASHINGTON (AP) — An aviation magazine Saturday described a strange Franco-German "flying barrel" said to be capable of "speed-of-sound vertical takeoff" and cruising at twice the speed of sound.

Aero Digest said the so-called circular-wing aircraft is "the biggest jolt since jets to modern aerodynamics."

It is said the flying barrel has been wind-tunnel tested, but so far as is known has not yet actually been flown. It added that the craft has potential value as a transport and "immediate significance" as a fighter plane.

Aero Digest described the flying barrel in these terms:

The machine resembles a barrel open at both ends. It stands on end for vertical takeoff like a rocket, then gradually arcs over to fly horizontally.

SWIVEL CHAIRS

The pilot's compartment and power plant are inside the barrel. The pilot and crew occupy swivel chairs that keep them upright whether the craft is flying vertically or horizontally. The power plant can be either jet or piston engines and is near the rear opening of the barrel.

Thus the barrel is, in effect, an "annular wing" — a ring or tube of metal around the plane, serving as a wing.

Aero Digest said the coleopter was designed by an Austrian engineer, Helmut Graf von Zborowski, and is being built, in collaboration with a French designing team, for the French aircraft firm Snevma.

It said the jet engine for an experimental model has been developed by another group of Snevma's German-French designers under the former German aircraft designer Hermann Poestrich.

Archbishop of York In Critical Condition

YORK, England (Reuters) The Archbishop of York, Dr. Cyril Garbett, is in critical condition in a nursing home here after an operation for an intestinal obstruction, it was announced yesterday. Dr. Garbett, who after the Archbishop of Canterbury is the senior clergyman of the Church of England, celebrated his 80th birthday last February.

Three Die as Rocket-Bomb Explodes

Three persons died in or near this car when a rocket bomb they were collecting for scrap at the Valcartier military camp near Quebec city exploded. Mrs. Odilon Daigle, only survivor of the group collecting the scrap, was seriously injured, but managed to drag herself to the nearest house for help. The exploding rocket mutilated the bodies of Paul Daigle, 25, Marie Daigle, 16, and Adrien Labranche, 21. —(Central Press Canadian)

For 'Significant Effort'

Special Awards Given By Festival Adjudicator

Three special certificates were awarded by the adjudicator at the Central Vancouver Island Drama Festival last night.

"They are not consolation prizes," adjudicator Bert Binny said. "They are for special and significant effort."

Jean Bourque was named best senior actress in the show, Tom Cooke best senior actor.

One of the special awards went to a young man who made a significant contribution by both directing and acting. Christopher Long for his work in "Brothers in Arms."

The second went to a young lady for a clearly spoken part which was "none too easy to do:" Joy Smith in "The Cloak."

Third was the award of merit given to the entire cast and production staff of "The Waif and the Wizard," for an ingenious and entertaining performance and this includes all the 'cabbages,' the 'turnips' and those thoroughly horrible 'gnomes,'" Mr. Binny said.

Among junior actors, highly commended were Neil McKenzie as the king in "The Poison Party" and Kenne Brown as the wizard in "The Waif and the Wizard."

An award of merit went to Donald Rushworth as the parrot in "The Waif and the Wizard."

The prize for the best junior actor went to Barry Bourque as the cardinal in the "Poison Party."

An award of merit was given Helen Pavey for "Denise de Beaujolis" in "The Poison Party." Prize for the best junior actress went to Pamela Wyndlow, a "truly marvellous technician," as the queen mother in "The Poison Party."

Among senior actors, an award of merit went to Christopher Malkin as Mrs. Greene in "Courage, Mr. Greene." The scholarship for the best actor was won by Tom Cooke for his Prince Charles Edward Stuart in "The Old Lady of Cheadle."

Best actress, senior, highly commended: Joanne Golightly as Mary in "Symphony In Illusion"; Ann Codville, as the waitress in "Wrong Number"; Lynne Lester as Tilda Price in "Nicholas Nickleby"; Barbara Eldred as The Presence in "Twilight of the Moon"; and Juliet Timmis as Jo in "The Perfect Party."

Awards of merit went to Peggy Haythow as a mad girl and Irene Webb as an old woman, both in "Symphony In Illusion."

The scholarship for the best senior actress was won by Jean Bourque for her Lady Arabella Skyring in "The Old Lady of Cheadle."

Report to Nation Slated by Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—With President Eisenhower as his "announcer," Secretary of State Dulles will report to the United States Tuesday night on plans for a Big Four meeting and other historic events.

Dulles will speak in the president's office in the presence of the chief executive and ranking cabinet colleagues and his words will be broadcast by TV and radio. He will be introduced by the president.

The White House announced the broadcast Saturday in a manner to suggest that Eisenhower wants to give it a full blast of publicity to assure the largest possible audience, and also to demonstrate his full support for his secretary of state.

Dulles will report on all aspects of his current mission to Europe, including the seating of West Germany as a member of the Atlantic Alliance in ceremonies at Paris, talks with British and French leaders on the Indo-China crisis and the signing of an Austrian peace treaty in Vienna.

Soviet Union, Satellite States Weld Forces into Giant Army

WARSAW, Poland (UP) — Russia and seven East European nations Saturday signed a 20-year military-political treaty creating a giant unified army. They named Soviet Marshal Ivan Koniev as supreme commander.

Koniev, Soviet deputy defence minister under Marshal G. K. [illegible] headquarters in Moscow.

Peng Teh Huai, Communist Chinese defence minister attending as an observer, hailed the signing of the treaty and pledged his nation's support of the new alliance, designed to counteract the West's North Atlantic Treaty Organization and West German rearmament.

Aside from the Soviet Union, nations signing the treaty were Albania, Bulgaria, Hungary, East Germany, Poland, Rumania and Czechoslovakia.

The protocols leave until later decisions on whether East Germany will contribute troops. East Germany now has no formal army.

UNIFIED COMMAND

The agreement sets up a NATO-like unified command, under Koniev, of forces to be contributed by all the other member nations.

It will be based in the treaty area "in accordance with the demands of mutual defence by agreement of these states," the military protocol said.

The eight Communist powers pledged to quickly come to the aid of each other in case of an attack.

Koniev's deputies in the new joint command will be the defence ministers of the participating nations or anyone they designate. His staff will include military leaders from all eight nations.

Battle of the Atlantic Sunday

TODAY is Battle of the Atlantic Sunday throughout Canada—a day set aside to commemorate the longest and most heroic combat engagement in the history of the world; a battle fought magnificently against an enemy attacking from the sky and from the hidden depths of a bleak and cruel sea. Like the Battle of Britain it was a battle in the modern sense of the word: not a quick and decisive clash of armed forces but one in which the days dragged into months and the months into years.

The young and the aged were in it, sharing its terrors and dreadful hardships. White-haired men came back from peaceful retirement ashore to the bridges and lower decks of ships as worn and tired as themselves so as to keep supplies of men and materials flowing across the Atlantic. Mere boys became men long before their time in the responsibility and peril of service afloat, in which the inferno of submarine attack alternated with periods of horrifying suspense awaiting the next. In no phase of a war that lasted nearly half a decade was endurance of body and spirit put under a more exacting test.

On this Battle of the Atlantic Sunday memorial services will be held in churches and naval chapels from one side of Canada to the other, partly because it is a national day of remembrance but also because there is scarcely a community in the Dominion, maritime or prairie, that does not number among its citizens men who served under either the White Ensign or the Red to keep the sea lanes open. In many homes grief will be inescapable today, but above it there will be memories of the supreme courage of men who would never give up no matter what the odds and who thereby knew the special comradeship that belongs to those who have shared peril and extreme hardship without weakening. Battle of the Atlantic Sunday is their day.

It's Space That's Wanted

THE suggestion of half-hour parking on Broad street, while well meant, implies little more than adding more money to the meters, which is no cure at all for the problems of one of the most congested downtown thoroughfares. The idea that this would double the number of shoppers along that street is attractive but not very convincing. The physical parking space, the bugbear of downtown traffic, would be left unaltered, and there is no guarantee even that a lesser time limit would keep cars moving so as to make way for others. Human habits are hard to change.

Among them is the practice of moving cars a foot or 20 feet to a different space in a general shuffle to avoid detection that leaves the same cars in the same few blocks all morning or all afternoon long; or the well established custom of replenishing the meter when the time has run out. These are devices which can be checked only by frequent official observation, and as matters stand the police force simply cannot cope with its parking meter chore, nor can it be expected to do so. Doubling the number of checks necessary would make the task utterly impossible.

Even the substitution of some civilian organization to take over meter supervision would make no difference, unless perhaps an inspector were given a beat of one block and one block only, which would mean a bill of costs too large to be entertained seriously. It is not meter operation of itself that will ever relieve the traffic congestion of this city and invite more downtown shoppers, but the provision of more parking space. Until this basic need is tackled with vigor and imagination all other shifts and turns are of small avail. Nor is it likely that the motoring public would take kindly to a parking rate of 20 cents an hour.

Enthusiasm Necessary

WHEN Victoria was half its present size its May 24 celebration had become celebrated for its magnificent floral display of all that is represented in a "city of gardens." Its decorated floats, flower-covered private cars and school groups in floral costumes made the May 24 parade here second to none on the Pacific Coast. If Victoria is to regain the reputation from which it has slipped badly that can only be done by genuine public interest in May 24 events, enthusiasm and active response on the part of the general public. The celebrations' committee has done its work, and the real issue now is the response that will be made by the community.

In a community rioting with bloom, and an age where color in every form was never more prolific and accessible, it should not be a difficult matter to revive the decorated vehicles section of the parade which made the former celebrations outstanding. It is not a question of extravagant cost so much as group effort. All of the materials are at hand if only they are put together. A latter-day disposition to stand back and let others make the running has a chilling effect on the organization of a successful and representative turnout for May 24 activities. The child with broom-decorated bicycle, the car with a blanket of roses, the float with a floral setting were not exceptional efforts, but put together in numbers they made a thrilling display.

That can be revived by public and private effort. And it will need to be if the traditional Victoria holiday is to be retained as a worthwhile feature of the community. There are now nine days left in which a response can be solicited or prepared in time for the event. We have instanced the parade, but without the essential enthusiasm no May 24 event can match the opportunities—and they are unlimited here.

Island Editors Say

Youth Also Serves

. . . While pondering this problem (juvenile delinquency) we might do well to remember the teen-age boys and girls in every community who are setting examples in behavior and effort which often go almost unheralded and unsung. Take, for instance, our Scout patrol leaders, the boys who assist our cubmasters and the girls who work with the Guides and Brownies, the teen-agers who make up the student councils at our high schools and the young folk who assist in our Sunday schools. Surely they are worthy of greater recognition . . . but they do not seek it. It is characteristic of these young people that they are quite satisfied to be viewed only as boys and girls who recognize the need for workers on the teen-age front—and have answered the call.

Big Farms Only?

Orderly marketing is the desirable end for all. However, the question of whether overproduction, in agricultural products, at any rate, is bound to come under price control is posed. Is the small man doomed under either set of conditions, fixed prices or open market?

There are many who feel that he is and that dairying today is undergoing the same trend toward large-scale production as applies to every other field.

The coming meeting of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture's directors in Duncan on June 7 should be welcomed by district farmers as an opportunity to have these private worries lifted.

—COWICHAN LEADER

His Stock Is Up

A very popular man on North and South Pender Islands today is Hon. P. A. Gaglardi, provincial minister of highways.

For the first time in history, Pender Islanders last Thursday left their homes in the morning, enjoyed a full day's shopping in Sidney and Victoria, and returned home by a scheduled ferry service in the evening. This came about by Mr. Gaglardi's approval of a new subsidized service linking the Penders with Salt Spring Island and Vancouver Island.

Politics aside, British Columbia's present government has done more to improve transportation services to the Penders than any previous government in B.C.'s history.

Good Beginning

Residents who attended the music festival here at the week-end must have been agreeably surprised at the excellence of Campbell River entries. Good singing is enjoyed everywhere and the singing here was of the best.

We are fortunate to have teachers in our midst who are willing to spend the time to produce singing like this.

As to the festival itself, this was the first time such an event had been staged in Campbell River and the public interest was not all it might have been. All things have small beginnings, however, and we look forward to a bigger and better festival next year.

—CAMPBELL RIVER COURIER

Amateur Theatre

Amateur theatre was very much in the public eye in Ladysmith and district during the past week, suggesting that this excellent community activity may again be gaining in popularity here. The big news, of course, was the amazing record of wins chalked up by the Yellow Point Drama Group in the regional festival at Nanaimo, but equally significant was the fact that members of the newly organized Ladysmith Little Theatre were able to compete with other more experienced Island groups and give a good account of themselves.

It is to be hoped that a portion at least of the interest created by this combination of events can be sustained in Ladysmith and that it will produce a more active interest in amateur theatre in this city in future.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

UNLESS they are of the kind generic to juke boxes, which flash like a comet and happily die after a brief outing, songs take some time to be adopted. Once taken over as folklore however they stick for ever.

National songs, which normally one doesn't whistle in the bathtub, although there's no law against it, have to grow on a nation. And due to the variety of moods and minds contained therein that growth is slow.

I am thinking at the moment of "O Canada", sung religiously in Victoria for many years but seemingly not quite so universal elsewhere across the country. At Rotary for instance it opens the customary luncheon meeting, and here I must make a confession.

Once or twice before, I think, I've suggested that national anthems—and remember that for practical purposes we have two in Canada—be sung less often rather than merely dragged in because it's thought to be good form to do so. I believe I've even suggested that service clubs and the like overdo the anthem business.

* * *

Well, I must say that at Rotary the past six months the singing of both "O Canada" and "God Save the Queen" has been tops. Quite a revelation to me, in fact; sung so heartily and full-voiced as almost to persuade me to revise my notions.

Last week I noticed a guest obviously just keeping time, however; filling in the words as he caught them. They were strange to him—our words, that is, not the tune. Over in Vancouver it seems, where of course they have to be different, his club sings another version. I presume this will be Routhier style, to wit: "O Canada! Our father's land of old . . ."

This rather suggests that a movement to make "O Canada" uniform across the country wouldn't come amiss.

I gather it would come a cropper in Ontario, though. They tell me they don't sing "O Canada" at all in that province!

I'm deducing now, but I suspect the omission is because the composers of words and music were both French-Canadians Upper Canada hasn't outgrown its parochial partisanship.

* * *

Myself I find the anthem very stirring and moving. It is 75 years old too, so there's little real excuse for it not being well known, Toronto and its environs notwithstanding. The English-speaking version, the Weir translation familiar to us and the one most commonly accepted, has itself some 40 years warrant behind it.

Perhaps, come to think of it, I should cite the Weir version, or rather the first verse which is all we ever sing. Many of us play verbal tricks with it, as we'd discover with a shock if a tape recording picked out our voice and no one else's. It's a fact anyway that memories are short.

So here it is:

O Canada! Our Home and Native Land!
True patriot-love in all thy sons command.
With glowing hearts we see thee rise,
The True North, strong and free,
And stand on guard, O Canada,
We stand on guard for thee.

O Canada, glorious and free!
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee!
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee!

Clip it out and learn it by heart; then you won't run the risk of embarrassment.

With the West Coast Halibuters

By GEORGE NICHOLSON

THE halibut season opened last Thursday and approximately 600 boats, nearly half of them of Canadian registry and each with a crew of from seven to 10 men, are now on the fishing grounds. These extend from off the Oregon and Washington coast to the western tip of the Aleutian Islands.

As all halibut fishing occurs beyond territorial waters and is controlled by the international fisheries commission, the vessels of both countries will be fishing alongside one another.

The coast is divided into areas, each with a given quota based on last year's catch and after investigation of the feeding and spawning grounds by experts of the biological board and the fish and wildlife service of the U.S.A.

When one area's quota is reached, fishing automatically ceases and many of the fishermen move to another. Others return home to prepare for the salmon fishing. The regulations are stringently enforced and the fishing grounds are continually patrolled by the U.S. Coast Guard and Canadian fisheries service vessels.

Most of the boats fish the area between the north end of the Queen Charlottes and 100 miles or so beyond Kodiak Island in Alaska. Others fish in Hecate Strait, or off the north end of Vancouver Island, and the smaller two and three-man boats off the west coast.

* * *

As the season is short, three or four round trips of seven to 12 days—according to where they fish—is the average. Except for putting in to some isolated up-coast inlet for live bait on their way to sea, they remain on the fishing grounds, sometimes 100 miles from land, till they obtain a load. Owing to the distance being so great, only a few of the larger Canadian boats fish in the area which includes the waters adjacent to the far western islands of the Aleutian chain and part of the Bering Sea.

The annual catch of the combined fleets averages 60,000,000 pounds, of which a little less than half is caught by Canadian boats. Because that port is nearest the fishing grounds and has huge cold-storage facilities, about half the total overall catch is landed at Prince Rupert, whence special refrigerator trains rush the fish across the continent to Eastern United States markets. But Canadian boats occasionally land their catches at some Alaskan port and in turn many American vessels land theirs at Prince Rupert.

The only other Canadian port that handles halibut is Vancouver, where most of the vessels fishing closer to home sell their fish; or when those fishing farther afield are attracted their by higher prices. A difference of 2 cents per lb. is worthwhile for a boat bringing in 25,000 lbs. of fish.

* * *

At both Prince Rupert and Vancouver all halibut is sold "on the board," with prices varying daily and sometimes every hour. Immediately on arrival the skipper chalks up the boat's name on a blackboard, and underneath the estimated weight of his load in the various grades: large, medium and chicken. Buyers then mark up their prices and the whole catch is sold to the highest bidder. Keener bidding than usual may be experienced in the case of a skipper who has a reputation for always landing his fish in first-class condition.

The overall price received by the fishermen averages 17 cents per lb., but by the time the fish reaches the retail stores it is 60 cents per lb.—a spread which is just as much a mystery to the fishermen themselves as it is to the general public. After one share going to the owner of the boat and a bonus to the skipper, the net earnings for the trip are apportioned equally among the crew. The livers are saved and this is a profitable sideline for all hands.

Thousands of codfish are caught along with the halibut, but as the price never exceeds 3 or 4 cents per lb and as often as not the fishermen cannot sell them at all, they are thrown back into the sea—dead or alive. Thousands of tons are wasted in this manner; yet the retail price for cod is 35 cents per lb. sliced, and 40 cents filletted.

Rare marine specimens frequently come up with the gear, including beautifully tinted corals, scallops, sponges and weird-shaped crabs. They would be the envy of any museum, but unfortunately there is no room for such curiosities and overboard they go.

Halibut are caught by "long line," which consists of hundreds of baited hooks attached at intervals to a line several hundred fathoms long and paid out along the sea bottom. One end is secured to a small anchor and the other buoyed to a marker, to which is attached a small pennant bearing the boat's identification number or initials. One boat may set as many as 30 lines, which are hauled in one by one by means of a power gurdy, then immediately rebaited and set again. In this process the boat continues to travel slowly forward from daylight to dark and as the nights up north are short there is little time for sleep.

* * *

Live bait is preferred to frozen and this is a profitable business for the few who provide it. A fence consisting of fine mesh wire netting, suspended from a log boom and reaching to the bottom of the sea, is placed across the head of a narrow inlet, to form a pond several hundred feet long. Prior to the season opening the herring are caught by a seine boat and while still swimming in the loosely pursed-up net, to prevent them from suffocating, are slowly towed through a gate in the boom and liberated. The impounded fish are caught again as required and brailed directly from the pond into the hold of the halibut boat. They are sold by the ton and stocks are replenished from time to time.

A few halibut are caught by the off-shore salmon trollers, but the quantity is negligible compared with that caught by the halibut fleet. Only occasionally are they caught in inside waters.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

DURING this month, some of the weirdest paradoxes in nature are to be observed. The care nature takes of some creatures and the abuse she heaps on others is hard to figure out.

An American merganser or fish duck, glorious in his peach, black, white and green mating costume was found choked to death on a sunfish twice too large for him to have swallowed. Was he showing off to his lady?

A black water snake attempted to engulf a good-sized mudcat or bullhead. Maybe the snake was still only half away from his winter sleep. Anyway, after he had got the bullhead nicely started down, the snake apparently decided to change his mind. But the sharp spikes of the bullhead's pectoral fins speared the snake, and there they were, both dead.

Such tragedies of the wilds are in contrast to the care nature takes of infant wood ducks. The wood duck nests in a cavity in a tree, often 20 to 60 feet from the ground. When the tiny ducklings are ready to leave the nest, they climb up the inside wall and, in response to coaxing from the mother down on the ground, the infants spring into space and fall kerplunk to the earth, unharmed. Frank Kortright in his monumental book on the ducks, geese and swans of America, quotes an authority who witnessed a brood of 12 wood ducklings jump from a tree cavity 22 feet above a concrete pavement in a park. The tiny down-clad creatures actually bounced. But not one was injured, and all eagerly followed their mother into the park pond.

The merry month of May will offer countless demonstrations of this strange variety in the fates allotted by nature to her products.

THE cornerstone was laid for a new $30,000 Shrine unit at Queen Alexandra Solarium, Mill Bay, just 25 years ago—on May 15, 1930.

One hundred and twenty-five guests gathered aboard the new ship Princess Elizabeth at the Belleville Street docks for the first luncheon served in the dining room. Capt. Cyril D. Neroutsos, manager of the B.C. Coast Steamship Service of the CPR, proposed the toast to the King.

Rt. Rev. Gerald Casey Murray of Montreal had been consecrated Bishop of Victoria—the first English-speaking Canadian from Quebec to be made a bishop.

Alderman John A. Worthington of Victoria was elected president of the International Association of Parks Commissioners.

John Masefield at 55 was named poet laureate of England. (He still is). Dr. Fridjtof Nansen, 68, famous artic explorer and humanitarian, died in Oslo, May 13, 1930.

Victoria West School choir, conducted by Miss Ella Smith, won the Arion Club challenge shield in competition with six other choirs. There was cheering when Ronald W. Gibson announced the winner's name at Victoria Musical Festival.

Victoria High School choirs won two challenge shields. Miss Dorothy Hartree won the B.C. Electric Rose Bowl, Victoria Ladies' Choir, conducted by F. Waddington, won the Colonist challenge shield.

Jack Smith of Victoria retained the senior organists' trophy.

Fifty years ago, Victoria city council authorized the first fully-paid fire department in the town's history.

Many people were doubtful about this experiment. Salaries were too low ($55 a month) and no provision was made for "uniforms and gum boots", The Colonist complained. And the plan didn't allow for a large enough department.

Previously, the department had been partly paid and partly volunteer.

"The telephone company has prepared and issued to subscribers a new telephone directory for Victoria, Ladysmith, Nanaimo, Vancouver, New Westminster and all other places on the Island and Mainland now in touch with the capital by long-distance wire."

A curfew for Indians had been declared in Victoria, 95 years ago.

"About seven o'clock every evening the policemen begin the arduous task of driving the Indians . . . to their encampments. Starting from the centre of Government Street, one walks in a northerly direction to Johnson, and the other southerly towards Yates, and then down those last two streets towards the bridge leading to the villages."

Any Indians found on the streets after dark were taken to jail—a seems hard on the original owners policy which from this distance of the country.

According to "A Doctor's Viewpoint" in your paper of May 8, a few "misguided but sincere people" are keeping fluoridated water from the populace.

Because of this, the article states, "Your children's teeth will decay unnecessarily" . . . "They will suffer tortures, etc." . . .

Children's teeth have been decaying unnecessarily for years, except in cases where the parents practiced healthy nutrition, and adequate dental hygiene was observed.

In a column sponsored by the B.C. Dental Association and printed in a Vancouver paper, we learn that during the last war when food was hard to get in England, a great deal of trouble was taken in seeing that what was available was of the most valuable and nourishing variety, "all frills were discarded" . . . fresh fruits and vegetables whenever possible, whole grain breads, "not highly refined as is used here", say the dentists of B.C.

As a result of these healthy natural diets tooth decay was enormously reduced.

As scientists have been doing research in tooth decay in England and Europe for a great many years, their findings are interesting and reliable.

The B.C. Dentists' article continues: "In Norway, comparisons between prewar and postwar figures showed a drop of dental decay of about 50 per cent during those days when diet was restricted to the coarser types and more natural types of food."

So why fluoridate? Let those parents who want their children to have fluorides get them by other means than by putting them in the water that we all must use whether we want to or not.

We should be free to choose our own diets and our own medications and preventive methods.

Japan Current

Victoria has been blessed by having the Japan Current, which flowed around our west coast and gave us the lovely weather. The Gulf Stream flows up around England and gives them weather like ours.

The U.S.A. sets off blasts of atomic bombs in the atolls, which I claim has changed the course of the Japan Current and has pushed it farther out to sea. Therefore we have lost something from this stream.

I would like our weather ships plus our other weather men to check on this, and I'm sure I'm right and they could prove same.

I don't think anyone has thought of this, but I'm sure I'm on the right track.

Scenic Road

Now that we appear to be moving into the realm of realism regarding bridge building, it would be timely to draw attention to a long felt want, and need: that is for a bridge to be built over the harbor mouth at the west end of the East Sooke road. It would meet a road built along Whiffen Spit and connect with West Sooke, thus making a circular tour, jointly benefiting the aforementioned districts and the Jordan, or West Coast road.

Times out of number has this writer been stopped by tourists to know if they could get round the harbor and when told "no" they have promptly asked, "why?"

It is, or could be, one of the most scenic drives on the south end of the Island. When discussing it with three of our own engineers some years ago they said it would be fine, but that it was a political matter. Since of course the whole stretch of road is practically dated at intervals with "political" milestones perhaps now we could have a real interest promoted on behalf of the "natives" and taxpayers as well as the tourist trade?

New Diseases

"The Doctor's Viewpoint" an article which appeared in the Colonist of May 8, is of great interest to all of us. It covers a wide range of subjects, that even Pasteur might take alarm if he could return to earth and learn how his discovery is being applied to every phase of modern medicine. Yet there are some distinguished doctors who disagree with his basic theory, and find there is cause for alarm at the fresh diseases which have developed as a result of the application of his theories to all and sundry.

There are many who feel that the Christian point of view with its love for humanity, and created things, may have to go by the board if vivisection of innocent animals is to be persisted in, in an attempt to save men from their sins of nature and will.

The old teachings pertaining to health and happiness are being displaced by a so-called science that postulates safety from the inoculation of poisons. We think it is too broad a claim to make that vaccination has almost wiped out smallpox. Better sanitation is most responsible for this . . .

Dogs Help To Chart Radioactivity Danger

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—In a unique village on the University of Utah campus more than 400 dogs are helping humans find out which radioactive elements are potentially harmful.

They are beagles and their village, naturally, is called Beagleville.

The dogs, Dr. Robert Bay, and seven technicians, under an Atomic Energy Commission contract, are conducting experiments which are important because of the great number of people who might be exposed to radioactivity at various AEC installations.

They would take on greater importance if the U.S. was involved in war.

Beagleville was founded in 1950 because the results of radioactive experiments with mice and rats could not be related accurately to humans. What was needed was a larger animal that lived longer.

The beagle was selected because of its easy disposition, its short hair, its ideal size for lab work and because it is one of the oldest pure breeds in the United States — giving better control of experiments.

The beagles are injected with graduated doses of radium, mesothorium, plutonium and radiothorium—all highly radioactive—and then observed closely.

The substances lodge in the damaging alpha particles. Some go after bone marrow, which manufactures blood cells; others attack the membrane covering the bones and others the bone cells. If the marrow is damaged, it shows in the blood count. Injury to the membrane or blood cells is recorded by X-ray.

Six dogs are used for each experiment, all of the same sex and, if possible, from the same litter. Five of them are injected with different amounts of a solution of one of the radioactive elements. The sixth is given an injection of water as a control.

They are given daily X-ray, blood count and other tests for months and even years.

After five years of experimenting, Dr. Bay can predict how much radioactive material will be discharged by a dog at a given time, when tumors will develop and the long-range toxic effects.

Special Hospital Parley Slated

VANCOUVER (CP) — An emergency meeting of the 76-member B.C. Hospital Association will be called within a week to discuss staff and service cutbacks necessary to comply with an unexpected provincial government order limiting wage budgets to the 1954 level.

Members of the Vancouver regional branch of the association met behind closed doors Friday to draw up "very strong" recommendations to be presented to the parent body.

Hospital authorities here refused to disclose the recommendations but admitted that the order will have serious consequences on the care and facilities offered in provincial hospitals.

Wage boosts, which the government now refuses to pay, were negotiated last November.

Hospital officials have been counting on a corresponding rise in government grants to cover the pay increases.

Spokesmen say the only possible way to meet the increased costs now is to cut back on foodstuffs and staff.

An official of St. Joseph's Hospital here said last night the hospital would be represented at the emergency meeting to discuss what are viewed as serious consequences here of the "freeze" order.

Royal Jubilee Hospital is not a member of the association.

A PADRE IN PRINT

BY REV. WILLIAM HILLS

If I close my eyes tightly enough, I can see it all again.

Away to the right is George's Island. Far to the left and beyond is Bedford Basin. Down here in front is the corvette jetty and passing along the main channel is a line of weather-beaten merchantmen.

In a short while, these ships will slide by the gate vessels and lift and fall to the long swell of the North Atlantic.

Because they take their leave from Halifax by night, only the riding lights—a brief luxury of safe waters — mark their passage.

Soon Sambro light will fall on their starboard quarter and then herded into their respective lanes by the whelp of the four-stacker and attendant escorts, they will set their course for Greenock or Liverpool.

Not all of them will reach port.

Some will go down slowly. Others will splinter into a thousand fragments. These ships and the men in them face not a voyage but an ordeal.

This is the Sunday we remember these things. It is "Battle of the Atlantic Day."

* * *

This morning, the roof of Victoria's Memorial Arena will look down on thousands of men in blue, their kinfolk and their friends.

Most of the men in uniform will know about the Battle of the Atlantic only by legend. Some few will know it by experience.

They will sing the stirring words of "Eternal Father, strong to save' and amongst the older civilians there will be many a tug at the heart.

Names like the Otter, the Raccoon, the Fraser and the Levis will not be forgotten. In the silence they will be remembered.

* * *

But whilst we honor the fighting navy, we would be guilty of great ingratitude if we did not raise a toast to the merchant skippers and their crews.

These were the ships and the men who won the Battle OF the Atlantic.

A cruiser, destroyer, frigate, corvette—even a minesweeper — these ships were built to sink or be sunk. Their crews were trained and dedicated to that purpose.

They won the battle FOR the Atlantic.

But the tanker, the transport and the cargo carrier, their job was to stay afloat.

Their main equipment was not armor-plating, a turn of speed and multiple fire-power, but the seamanship and intestinal fortitude of ship's officers and men.

The ensign they flew was not white but red, and it was that color which lit up many a dark Atlantic night and crimsoned many a wild Atlantic wave.

All honor to the merchant seamen who breasted the hostile ocean out of Halifax and the western approaches as gaily and bravely as any admiral's crew. This is their day too.

Graham Packs Stadium

LONDON (CP)—Police estimate that about 75,000 persons attended a revival meeting conducted by American evangelist Billy Graham at London's Wembley Stadium Saturday.

It was the first of one week of revival meetings Graham is conducting in England. Between 4,000 and 5,000 persons moved to the playing field when Graham called for "decisions for Christ." They formed a dense mass covering an area half the size of a football gridiron.

Special buses and trains brought the crowds into Wembley Stadium from various parts of England.

The evangelist will stay at Quen Elizabeth's official Scottish residence when he returns to Scotland for a brief visit the end of the month.

Graham will be the guest of the Duke of Hamilton at Holyrood House in Edinburgh when the evangelist goes north to address the general assembly of the Church of Scotland. The duke is lord high commissioner for Scotland.

Kamikaze Chief Ready To Ram Any Threatening Red A-Bomber

TOKYO (AP) — The former commander of Japan's Second World War kamikaze (suicide) corps says if Russia threatens his country with hydrogen or atomic bombs, "I will be the first man to ram myself against a Russian plane — kamikaze style."

Gaunt Tadashi Nakajima, 44, is now a staff colonel in Japan's new air force, as well as one of this resurgent nation's most controversial figures.

Col. Nakajima said Japan would feel the same sense of impending doom she knew in 1945 if the Russians should attack. "Without letting us earn enough time for the painfully slow building of our air force."

"Only the suicide formula would be left for us," he said.

"I would do it myself. But I would not suggest or advise any other fliers to follow my example."

Nakajima spoke with deep personal feeling, for he has become a target of intense public criticism since the war.

He has written a book and also edited a movie script, the latter inaccurately depicting him going on a suicide mission. This was resented by survivors of some 1,500 kamikaze pilots who plunged to their deaths against Allied ships in Philippine and Okinawa waters.

One admiral who helped organize the kamikaze corps took his life by committing "harakari." Another flew to his death on a personal kamikaze mission when Japan surrendered. So the nation's bitterness over the suicide organization has been heaped on Nakajima.

Kamikaze, the Japanese word for "divine wind," refers to a typhoon which, according to legend, centuries ago destroyed an invasion fleet of Kublai Khan.

Winnipeg Ballet Back on Its Feet

BY PETER BRUTON

The Royal Winnipeg Ballet will return to the stage next November for the first time since the disastrous fire which destroyed all its assets last June.

Dignitaries from across Canada will be invited to attend the gala performance.

A number of internationally known choreographers and composers have been asked to produce new ballets.

Eight former dancers of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet have indicated their desire to return to the company and other dancers are now being sought from across Canada and in England.

Public-spirited citizens across the country helped get the company back on its feet by donating a total of $60,000.

GINA LOLLOBRIGIDA

Ballyhoo on the Riviera

Hokum-Filled Cannes Festival Artfully Provides Daily Scandal

CANNES (NANA) — The eighth international film festival here is one of the most elaborate pieces of hokum and ballyhoo ever seen in these parts.

This sardine-packed, bumptious, expensive riviera resort [illegible] currently [illegible] tween an election convention invaded by bees, a tom-tom palaver by Congo natives and a striptease in the grounds of a mental hospital.

The affair is organized with admirable virtuosity. Rumors are put out artfully to the panting reporters and photographers: Gina Lollobrigida has snubbed Sophia Loren and (how about that?) Sophia Loren has snubbed Gina Lollobrigida; Gary Cooper is sleeping 15 hours a day to be "on form" for the climax; Brigitte Bardot has arrived with 86 Bikinis and is not sleeping at all.

TOO OFTEN TO EAT

Star banquets are being given oftener than anybody can eat. Two hundred photographers are allowed to slip in after the caviar and then are rejected by the police to make them sure they are missing something.

"Scandals" are launched with cunning art: So-and-so (the homespun star married for 40 years with 8 children) is flirting with such-and-such (the nine times divorced real-life vamp).

Female stars are seen constantly from breakfast time on strolling negligently in the sun in evening dress, as though it were naturally what they wore all the time. Necklines dive lower and lower. Some of the blonde lovelies pout and look annoyed when they are caught (such an accident) supine on the beach in costumes flimsy enough to make the sea blush.

Others even get away with a technique that was old when Garbo used it—refusing to be seen, fighting off cameramen, asking for police protection and reported to be sobbing with despair in their hotel rooms.

HARD TO GET

Nonchalantly it is made known that it's easier to get an interview with Mao Tse Tung than with Esther Williams or Doris Day.

Assistant producers are as serious as bankers, as self-important as cabinet ministers.

Those who live here all-year round, the citizens of Cannes, merely stand on the sidelines, looking stunned. But the shopkeepers are happy—the film festival brings a lot of cash into their tills.

But the hokum is all good fun. Lots of reporters are put to work and cameramen produce thousands of pictures that are pleasant to look at. Nobody seems to get hurt by it all.

Sets Owner Apart

Unique Voice in Demand

BY HAROLD HEFFERNAN

HOLLYWOOD (NANA). — Except for the familiar ring of their names—and some are confusingly alike—the easiest way to identify movie stars these days is by the familiar ring of their voices.

No two tones, with the possible exception of those of Clark Gable and Jeff Chandler, are anywhere near similar. Even the casual moviegoer should be able to walk into a theatre blindfolded and still determine what performers are playing the lead roles.

The more distinguished the voice, the greater an actor's chance for lasting success. Not since the introduction of sound films has there been so much enthusiasm for the speaking voice as exists today at all major studios.

The once highly acceptable "stage" voice with the syllabically-perfect diction, the ringing tones and the trembling depths is no longer considered necessary, not even especially desirable.

Producers are now listening for a "character voice," one that readily sets its owner apart. Judy Holliday has such a voice. So have Jack Webb, Aldo Ray, Bette Davis, Marlon Brando, Jimmy Cagney, Edward G. Robinson, Charles Boyer and, to be sure, Andy Devine.

For actors and actresses who find it impossible to adopt new and individual speech styles—or who weren't born with same like June Allyson, who swears her husky voice came with the cradle—the next best thing seems to be an accent. A slight accent, that is, and an appealing one. It can't be very thick because producers will have no truck with a player who can't be understood. Neither will audiences.

One acting newcomer who figures to benefit enormously from the new trend in vocal specialization is Jack Sernas, the imported lover boy whom Warners are about to present in "Jump Into Hell," to be followed by the season's most glamorous male role, that of Paris in "Helen of Troy."

Lithuanian-born and Paris-London-and-Rome educated, Jack has just a trace of Gallic gavanism in his voice. Enough to convince the ladies that he'd like to crush them in his arms and enough to warn men that he'd be unfair competition on the amour course.

'Damn Yankees' Cinch for Pennant In Musical Loop

BY JOHN McCLAIN

NEW YORK (NANA)—Well, this is it—a truly remendous musical. George Abbott, with a notable assist from Douglass Wallop (author of the novel from which it was fashioned), has brought in a brilliant song-and-dancer which should last as long as Gwen Verdon. And, judging from the shape she was in Thursday night, that should be forever.

"Damn Yankees," which premiered at the Forty-Sixth Street Theatre, is a jubilant combination of the town's best talents.

Dr. Abbott has provided the punch, pace and polish for which he's famous; Miss Verdon has never been given more magnificent material or complimentary costumes and she takes full advantage of both; Stephen Douglass and Ray Walston give her generous support; the score by Richard Adler and Jerry Ross is certainly ingenious if not inspired; the scenery and costumes by William and Jean Eckart are exceptional and original, and Bob Fosse has had a complete field day in building his choreography around a baseball background.

COMPLEX NOTION

It could not have been an offhand task to develop a musical-comedy plot from the rather complicated notion of Mr. Wallop's novel. The devil, in the form of Ray Walston, decides to pluck a sedentary baseball fan away from his television screen and make him the greatest rookie in the world. Thus Stephen Douglass is reduced in years and given a berth with the Washington Senators.

It is when Mephisto's plan to permit the fledgling to reach the heights, only to be brought down by his disciple, Gwen Verdon, in the critical pennant race with the Yankees.

The tale is told with an almost incredible dedication to the U.S. national pastime: the chorus gentlemen actually look like ballplayers; the manager, played to the hilt by Russ Brown, is a tough and truculent as Durocher; and the dance numbers involving the boys are as legit as possible short of spiked shoes. The big number in the first act, "Shoeless Joe from Hannibal, Mo.", ends with the lads hitting the dirt toward the footlights, and on opening night it received an ovation.

Miss Verdon will fracture you with "Whatever Lola Wants." She makes a belated appearance in the proceedings, but once she's arrived there's no question about who's in charge.

JOSH AT MAMBO

This is followed after a polite interval by "Who's Got the Pain?"—a Josh at the mambo and, in the second act, "Two Lost Souls," with Mr. Douglass, which not only tied up the show but also the traffic on Forty-Sixth Street.

This girl can sing and dance like a dream; she is extremely pretty and has a figure such as all girls dream of having, but few acquire.

Other plaudits should be accorded Shannon Bolin, Jimmie Komack, Nathaniel Frey, Richard Bishop, Jean Stapleton, Rae Allen and Robert Shafer.

Happens Even to the Best

Famed Coldstream Guards, usually the last word in drill precision, are caught in an unguarded moment at the traditional Queen's Guard Mounting on Horse Guards parade in London. The front line has a wave to shame a rookie squad and the sway-backed rear line seems to be no great improvement.—(Central Press Canadian)

The Radio World

They Only Seem Long

BY BRUCE LOWTHER

Private radio stations in Canada stay close to time limits for commercial announcements despite claims to the contrary, says CBC producer J. Frank Willis.

He outlined major regulations during a recent program in the Wednesday evening series, "In Reply," which attempts to answer common questions from listeners.

Commercial time for a one-hour program up to 6 p.m. is seven minutes; after 6 p.m., it is six minutes, and doubling or trebling programs in the hour does not double or treble the commercial time.

For a 30-minute program up to 6 p.m., the sponsor may use four minutes and 15 seconds; after 6 p.m., six minutes. For a 15-minute program to 6 p.m., time is three minutes; after 6 p.m., it is 2¼ minutes.

A 15-minute record show may have four commercials, but their total time must not exceed three minutes.

"Some commercials may seem longer than others," Mr. Willis said, "but on checking, you will find they are pretty well as I have described them."

"PARTY" HOST

Many Vicorians stay up until 1 a.m. each day because of popular disc jockey Norm Pringle, 30-year-old Albertan who is host at "House Party" on CKDA each night.

A 10-year man in radio, Norm started at CKXL, Calgary, and came here in 1952 after a stop at CKMO, Vancouver. His other shows include "Island Barn Dance" and "Land o' Heather," and Norm made headlines a few years back with his song "Santa Got Stuck in the Chimney."

On "House Party," he has interviewed such people as Bing Crosby, Gypsy Rose Lee, Frankie Laine and Nelson Eddy, who turned quite hostile when asked to sing "Short'nin' Bread."

A friendly type, Norm almost lost friends recently when he told listeners they might win a TV set if they donned costumes and went to Pandora and Douglas. It was April Fools' Day.

The Car Corner

This Is British Columbia?

BY J. T. JONES

Did you know that British Columbia drivers heed speed limits meticulously? That no matter how great their hurry nothing will induce them to exceed the prevailing limit or to pass while there is still a corner or other hazard in sight? That two blasts on the hooter mean "thank you," and no one omits this courtesy?

And, finally, did you know that pedestrians who jaywalk are likely to be hauled up by the Royal North-West Police, who have taken over the policing of all Canada?

It's all there in black and white in the April 13 edition of The Motor, an English publication of great authority.

"MOVE OVER"

Maybe The Motor is thinking of some other British Columbia. In this part of the world, which I had always thought of as British Columbia, two blasts on the hooter mean, "Move over, you road-hog, if you're going to creep along at 70 all day," and pedestrians who jaywalk are mainly likely to cause somebody apoplexy at no legal expense whatever.

Apart from all this, the article sees a lot of merit in our motels, parking meters and gasoline credit cards, and is illustrated with charming sketches of B.C. scenes, including Victoria's Edgewater Auto Court and a bus bound for Nanaimo, through the "pine woods."

LOT FOR MONEY

In the same magazine there is a report on an English-style road test of a Plymouth Belvedere V-8, which can lead only to the conclusion that this car, like domestic cars in general, is an awful lot of transportation for the money. The Plymouth ranks in size and comfort with some of the biggest, most luxurious automobiles produced in Britain. In power it is a good deal up on most of them.

This leads to the argument of small versus large cars. Personally, I like small cars for city driving. There are advantages to a short wheelbase in traffic and in parking that no amount of power steering can make up for. But on the highway a larger car is preferable for a good many reasons. The trick, I suppose, is to figure how much of each kind of driving can be expected, and choose a small, medium or large vehicle to suit.

And, of course, this overlooks considerations of prestige, appearance, cost, comfort and economy. The fact is that nobody is building bad cars. All the makes have so much to be said for them that the final choice boils down pretty well to appearance and what the dealer will allow on a trade-in. The problem these days, with a buyer's market and all, is much like that of a small boy in the candy store.

OOPS!

Minor slip-up department: National Motors' No. 3 service station was opened with lots of fanfare, banners and roaring trade yesterday. National Motors, as practically everybody knows, deals in Fords. What car was shown waiting by the pumps in the announcements? Looked mighty like an Oldsmobile.

SPORTS REVUE

By Jimmy Cannon

NEW YORK (NANA)—There are impersonal experiences which don't belong to me, but I feel I own them forever. They are the trinkets of a life. Such memories can't be classified with the great joys or the big sorrows. They are the small topics guys talk about with fondness. Nostalgia may exaggerate them, but what if it does? Men don't harm anyone and all lies are innocent when you remember exciting events in which you participated only as a spectator.

It is the reason why I get depressed when I realize what is happening to baseball. Games are the way you kill time. I make my living reporting them. The lowering of the standards of competition is a serious matter to me. It should affect you, too, if you realize that baseball is perishing. This wouldn't be a national catastrophe, but it is not good for any people when fun goes out of their lives.

I enjoy best the small and lurid arts. It is an admission of ignorance, but I am touched more by the clean happiness of Gershwin's jazz than Wagner's somber fierceness. I appreciate the singers at the Met but they don't grab me half as much as Frank Sinatra singing Cole Porter's "It's All Right With Me."

There are views I hold dear. There was a garish dusk in Korea, the twilight flushed with sun's final glow. I sat on a bluff and looked down on the Bay of Masan with the junks moving across the shining waters in tranquility strange in that time of war. I've seen the Grand Canyon from the air at dawn. But the sun on the snows of the fields along the Bastogne-Arlon road during the Battle of the Bulge was beautiful and shall stay with me always. It meant the planes could fly and help besieged Bastogne. Such scenes are my property.

* * *

It is that way with baseball, too. No one who understands the game can ever forget Bob Feller throwing the curve ball with three and two. Have you ever seen Stan Musial leaning with the pitch so he can go to left field when they're hitting the outside corner? Or Jackie Robinson stealing home? Or Pete Reiser or Joe DiMaggio chasing a fly ball beyond them?

When pitchers are discussed, I'll always recollect Dizzy Dean when he threw the ball by them with that tall-bodied motion. There are other great infielders, but Charlie Gehringer played ground balls with such a blase grace that I compare all the kids with him when enthusiastic ball journalists make reservations for them in the Hall of Fame.

We may be deprived of similar kicks. Naturally, we got Willie Mays and Herb Score. But the great ballplayers decrease. We may live to see baseball as a week-end sport. It will not happen immediately, of course, but there is evidence baseball as a game played continually from April to October doesn't interest too many people.

They tell you that television does it in New York. They put too many games on the screen here. But in other cities where only radio eavesdrops the attendance diminishes. Television as an entertainment medium keeps people home.

All these may be valid excuses. But there are regulars in the majors now who couldn't hang on in triple A before the war. In those days a guy had to hit .300 to be judged a good batter and unless a pitcher won 20 games he wasn't honored as one of the elite.

* * *

Night ball has a lot to do with it. The impoverishment of the minors is forcing the big leagues to accept players they would ignore years ago. The percentages substantiate the theory. If the ball is lively, as so many contend, why doesn't someone come close to Babe Ruth's home run record? Shouldn't there be .400 hitters if the ball is gaffed?

The International League was once a prosperous federation. But now its range is silly. How can a minor league maintain a sensible schedule when it runs from Montreal to Havana? It is the same way in the American Association.

The big-league ballplayer must learn his trade in the minors. Should, as many insist, a big-league ball club go to Minneapolis it will demolish the American Association. That would raze Minneapolis and St. Paul. It is agreed that if the big leagues settle in California, they will set up both in San Francisco and Los Angeles. Such a shift would evict Oakland, San Francisco, Hollywood and Los Angeles from the Pacific Coast League.

It is up to the people who run baseball to save their sport from oblivion. The leadership is poor. No one — including Ford Frick, who holds the office of commissioner of baseball — has come up with a plan to give back the game its lost prestige.

Baseball may be a dying business but it's still my sport. If it dies, the people who operate it will have assassinated it. They're dumb and greedy and seem unable to think beyond tomorrow.

Starts Fast, Gets Nowhere

Russ Hearn of Capitals sets out for first base during yesterday's Lower Island Senior Amateur Baseball League game against Eagles at Royal Athletic park. However, his sprint was a short one as the ball was caught by Eagles' right fielder in the late stages of the game which opened the senior baseball season in Victoria. Watching the ball on its flight are Eagle catcher Ron Pearce and umpire Roy Schneider. Eagles came from behind to take an 8-4 decision and Farmer Construction thumped Duncan, 20-6, in an evening tussle.

Colonist Contest To Award Prizes For Biggest Fish

A new and unique fishing contest open to all residents of Vancouver Island will be conducted this summer and fall by The Daily Colonist.

The Colonist will present beautiful trophies to the individuals catching the largest trout, the largest tyee salmon, the largest coho and the largest spring salmon.

The winner in each category will receive a cash prize of $50 as well as the trophy if he or she is a subscriber to The Daily Colonist at the time the winning fish is caught.

HIDDEN WEIGHT

In addition all salmon weighing more than five pounds and all trout more than two pounds caught by Colonist subscribers may be weighed in and entered in a hidden-weight winner in The hidden weight winner in each category will also receive a $50 cash prize.

Some merchandise prizes, which will be announced later, will also be awarded to winners. The contest opens June 1 and closes on October 31.

The aim of the King Fisherman contest, as it is to be known, is to establish an official record of the largest fish caught from year to year in Vancouver Island waters. Cash prizes are fun-making bonuses for Colonist subscribers.

RULES SIMPLE

There are only a few rules for the contest. The trout category excludes sea-run cutthroat and steelhead, but includes all other species caught in fresh water on the Island. In rivers flowing into the sea, trout must be caught above the high tide mark.

Tye salmon springs weighing more than 30 pounds—to be caught in the Alberni Canal or in salt water off Campbell River or Comox.

Spring salmon must be caught in salt water south of Nile Creek (a few miles north of Qualicum Bay) and extending south on the east coast of the Island to Victoria and north as far as Port Renfrew.

In the coho category, fish may be caught in any salt water off Vancouver Island.

ROD AND REEL

Any lures may be used, but fish must be caught on rod and reel, either by trolling or casting.

Key weigh-in stations have been established between Upper Campbell Lake and Victoria and will be named in the Colonist before the King Fisherman contest gets started June 1. It is expected that most fishing lodges and boathouses on the Island will eventually be weigh-in stations equipped with official entry forms and instructions.

Eagles, Farmers Clean Up In Amateur Baseball Opener

Victoria baseball fans got their first look at Lower Island Amateur Baseball League competition yesterday as all four teams saw action at Royal Athletic park.

In the afternoon game which ushered in the season for the newly-formed league Eagles came from behind to down Capitals, 8-4. Farmer Construction overpowered Duncan, 20-6, in the twilight contest.

For the spectators, the afternoon game provided the most thrills with the clubs battling right down to the wire before settling the issue.

Trailing 4-2 coming up in the bottom half of the seventh inning, Eagles started a drive that loaded the bases and Norm Curran slammed a grand-slam home run that cleared the fence 320 feet from home plate and boosted the Eagles into a 6-4 lead.

Hodge followed Curran with another circuit smash to make it 7-4 and the Eagles added an insurance tally in the eighth inning.

Capitals had taken the lead with one run in the third frame and added single tallies in the fourth, sixth and seventh frames.

The evening tussle was far different from the afternoon's tight contest, with errors and bases on balls setting the stage for many of the runs. Farmers all but wrapped up the decision in the fifth inning as they collected nine hits and three walks off pitcher Don Hughes to chase 12 runs across the plate for an 18-4 lead.

ROUGH ON MOUND

Both teams used three pitchers in the game, and with the exception of Farmers' southpaw Art Worth, none fared too well. Ken Williams started for the losers, and lasted only one and one-half innings as Farmers pushed across three runs in the first and three more in the second.

Hughes relieved Williams and stayed in the game until the sixth, when Lyle Rodger came in to finish the game for Duncan.

Duncan almost made a game of it in the fourth, when they scored twice to bring the score to 6-4, but they lacked power at the plate and failed to score again after a two-run sixth inning.

Farmers had a field day at the plate, slamming the Duncan hurlers for 21 hits, including four doubles and a pair of triples. Charlie Boyd paced the winners with a double and two singles in four trips to the plate.

Thousands Applaud Sportsmen's Show

BY JIM TANG

EDMONTON — A near-capacity crowd showed up at Exhibition Gardens here Saturday night as the Western Canadian Sportsmen's Show ended a highly-successful eight-day stand.

This is the same show which will appear at Memorial Arena June 14-18 and Victorians are assured of being able to see their first really good outdoors show.

Managing Director Roy Lisogar has assembled some of the best talent available for his show, which has variety which should please any customer.

Probably the top act was Bill Fontana and his amazing Dalmatian, Peppy, who is billed as the only log-rolling dog in the world. Peppy drew rounds of applause as he went through his difficult act without muffing once in both matinee and evening performances. Fontana has appeared in all the bigger centres and at this time a year ago was appearing in Berlin as a featured artist with John Weismuller's water show.

The other dog act, Bob O'Loughlin and his trained hunting dogs, is certainly one of the best of its kind. The young trainer uses five dogs on each performance and all are about as good as a hunting dog can get.

His black Labrador and Chesapeake appear to be the best, but the most popular is the low-slung Basset hound, who adds a comedy touch.

Also in the top brackets in this type of entertainment is the seal act. Capt. Guy Leslie proved a real crowd pleaser as he put his seals, Romeo and Juliet, through their paces. His is recognized as one of the three top seal acts and he, as well as Fontana and O'Loughlin, has played in almost every major sports show on the continent.

Anglers will watch Patsy Hubbard, one-time U.S. junior fly-casting champion, with envy. She can handle a fly rod with the best and winds up her act by casting four lines at a time with two rods in each hand.

Then there is Jimmy Troy, a good slack-rope act; a fine trapeze aerialist, a chimpanzee act, log-rolling, canoe tilting and other acts, as well as displays of every kind of equipment used for outdoor pleasure.

Lisogar announced that almost 7,900 took in the two performances Saturday and that almost 50,000 attended during the eight days. The show now moves to Calgary, where it attracted more than 58,000 last year. From there it goes to Vancouver and then to Victoria.

Cooper Top Winner As Speedway Opens

Dave Cooper, winner of the point championship at Western Speedway last year, nosed out Ladysmith's Digger O'Dell in a spine-tingling finish in the main event as the Millstream road track opened its 1955 stock car season last night.

A record crowd of more than 3,000 fans saw Cooper get away in front but barely hold off the Vancouver Island stock car champion of last season. O'Dell started moving up through the field on the 15th lap of the 25-lap race and challenged Cooper on the final circuit, but was nosed out by five feet in the duel down the stretch.

Several spin-outs and minor crackups added to the excitement for the fans, and Bill Temple became the first member of the Western Speedway Rollover Club when he flipped his stocker going into the first turn in the second heat.

Swimmer Bert Thomas flagged off the new season and Mrs. Thomas presented the trophy to the winner of the first race.

Results:

Trophy dash—1. Phil Lambrick; 2. Dick Varley; 3. Digger O'Dell.
First heat—1. Digger O'Dell; 2. Jerry Sylvester; 3. Dave Cooper.

The team goes west for games at Calgary, Vancouver and Winnipeg before finishing the tour with games at Detroit and Toronto.

The 17 players will leave for home June 7.

Softball Loop Slates Opening

The Victoria Girls' Softball League, reduced to a two-team setup following the disbanding of the Sidney Marchant squad, will open its season Tuesday when Individuals meet Copleys at Central Park at 6.30 p.m.

The teams, which have both picked up players from the disbanded Sidney team, hope to round out their schedule with exhibition games against Vancouver senior "A" squads. Individuals have won the B.C. senior "B" title for the past two seasons.

Last night's score: Nanaimo 13, Mt. Pleasant Indians 7.
Next game, Tuesday: Nanaimo at Vancouver.

NANAIMO (Special) — Nanaimo Timbermen opened up a two-point lead in the Inter-City Lacrosse League here Saturday by whipping Jake Proctor's Mt. Pleasant Indians, 13-7, before about 2,000 fans for their second straight victory.

Led on the attack by imports Jim McNulty and Derryl Davies, who each scored three goals, the Timbermen broke loose for five goals in the final quarter to make victory certain and hand Indians, who opened with a 9-7 triumph over defending champion Victoria, their first setback of the season.

THREE MORE

McNulty, scoring champion of the Ontario Lacrosse Association last season who picked up three goals and an assist in Nanaimo's 17-11 victory over Vancouver last Saturday, added one assist to his hat trick for a total of eight points in two games. McNulty scored all three goals in the final quarter as Timbermen's powerful attack worked smoothly.

John Lumley, away to a good start in the scoring race, added two goals and he picked up two assists to make it nine points in two games, and Don Ashbee picked up two goals, his first as a Timberman.

Checking was extremely hard but clean and referees Sid Greenwood and Eric Dickinson again ruled tightly to keep matters in control throughout.

DEFENCE SHINES

One of the outstanding features of Nanaimo's play was a brilliant defence led by Davies. Indians were kept off balance with some bone-shaking checks and winners had Fred Fulla back in goal. Fulla, who is apparently fully recovered from an ankle operation, turned aside 17 shots.

Tom White, up from senior "B" ranks, opened scoring for Nanaimo but quick goals by Jim Houghton and Harold Fox gave Indians their only lead. Lumley tied the count at 13:20 and put Nanaimo ahead to stay at 2:30 of the second period and the Timbermen held a 6-4 edge at half-time.

Checking was tight in the third quarter but Nanaimo scored the odd goal of three to carry an 8-5 lead into the final quarter. Within the first seven minutes of the final session Nanaimo had run up a 12-5 lead on two goals by McNulty and singles by Don Ashbee and Spud Morelli, and it was just a matter of playing out the clock.

Rocky Big Favorite To Demolish Cockell

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rocky Marciano is expected to demolish Don Cockell, a broad-beamed British hog farmer, in the fifth defence of his world heavyweight title Monday night at Kezar Stadium.

The sturdy champ from Brockton, Mass., unbeaten in a 47-fight career which includes 41 knockouts, is such a top heavy favorite that there is practically no betting on the result. One source lists Marciano as a 9-to-1 choice. It's about 8 to 5 that Cockell won't last five rounds.

Cockell, first British heavyweight to get a chance at the crown since Tommy Farr fought Joe Louis in 1937, has failed to impress in his training at suburban San Rafael. Although the 26-year-old challenger has trimmed down from 220 pounds to 208, he has glaring defensive weaknesses and does not appear to have the punch to bother Rocky.

MUST WATCH CUTS

On the other hand, Marciano hit a peak in his closing drills at Gallagher, battering sparmates with a thumping body attack. Sharp at about 169 pounds, the 30-year-old champ seems to have only cuts to fear.

The nose cut that Ezzard Charles opened last September has leaked no blood during the long training grind. There is no guarantee, however, that it won't split again from a solid punch.

Jimmy Murray, local promoter working with the International Boxing Club in staging the fight, has reported advance sales of more than $150,000. The stadium has 68,000 seats priced from $5 to $40.

There will be no home TV. The fight will be beamed, however, to about 83 theatres in 59 cities on closed-circuit television and will be carried on radio by NBC and the Dominion network of the CBC.

The title bout will start at 8 p.m. PDT.

RE-MATCH CLAUSE

Marciano gets 40 per cent of the gate and Cockell 20. There is a 50-day re-match clause in the contracts, in case Cockell wins.

No Englishman has held the title since Bob Fitzsimmons knocked out James J. Corbett at Carson City, Nev., in 1897.

The new ring ratings, soon to be released, list Cockell as the No. 3 challenger, behind Americans Archie Moore and Bob Baker. Unbeaten since he ate his way into the heavy class in '52, Cockell has a spotty lifetime record of 61-10-1. He has been knocked out five times.

A stinging left jab and hook are his best weapons, while Marciano throws about everything in the book in combinations.

BILL MAWHINNEY

BILL McCOLL

Willingdon Cup teammates in 1949, Bill McColl of Victoria and Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver will clash today in the 36-hole final for the British Columbia match play open championship at the Victoria Golf Club. McColl won the Island Open title with an 8 and 7 victory over Hugh Morrison while the Mainland professional whipped B.C. amateur champion Lyle Crawford 4 and 3 in the Mainland final. Interest has reached a peak and a large gallery is expected to turn out to watch the battle. Morning round gets under way at 10 a.m. and the afternoon round starts at 2 p.m.

By The Associated Press

The Brooklyn Dodgers made a triumphant return to Cincinnati's Crosley Field, one of their favorite stamping grounds, Saturday and trampled the Cincinnati Reds for a 13-2 victory.

The one-sided verdict, highlighted by Carl Furillo's home run with the bases loaded, was Brooklyn's 24th victory in 28 games and served notice the Brooks intend to repeat last year's record of nine victories in 11 games in Cincinnati.

Brooklyn moved nine games ahead of the National League pack as Milwaukee nipped Philadelphia 5-4 and went into a virtual tie for second place with the New York Giants.

The Giants bowed to Chicago 5-0 as Bob Rush pitched his second successive shut out against the New Yorkers. New York is two percentage points ahead of the Braves.

Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 6-0 in a night game.

TWO-MAN STORY

Boston's Jackie Jensen and New York's Elston Howard were the whole story in the American League. Jensen walloped two home runs, the second in the home half of the 13th inning, to account for all his team's runs in a 3-1 verdict over Kansas City.

Howard capped a Yankee rally in the ninth inning with a triple that sent home the tying and winning runs in a 7-6 victory.

Cleveland, the league leader, was rained out at Washington and Chicago, the second place team, had its game in Baltimore called off for the same reason.

Furillo's home run—after 13 hitless times at bat—was the sixth grand slammer of his career and temporarily tied him with teammate Duke Snider for the league leadership at nine apiece.

Snider broke the tie later in the same inning, however, when he walloped his 10th of the year. The Duke also had a double and two singles in the Brooklyn barrage of 16 hits.

Johnny Podres coasted to his fourth victory in five decisions, missing a shutout when Wally Post rapped a two-run home run in the ninth inning.

Eddie Mathew's 400-foot home run in the fifth inning gave relief pitcher Ernie Johnson all the edge he needed. Johnson had taken over for Warren Spahn with two out in the third inning.

Del Crandall's double with the bases loaded tied it at 4-4 in the fourth inning, and the Mathews-Johnson team took it from there.

Rush now has pitched 26⅓ scoreless innings against the Giants, who contributed three errors, six bases on balls and a hit batter to the Cub's offensive.

Aided by such generosity, Chicago was able to get eight runs out of only five hits—all of them singles. The Giants outhit the Cubs, 7 to 5, but three double plays helped preserve his shutout.

City Blanks Alberni In Island Cup Final

Victoria City, turning in a sparkling passing display in building up a 5-0 first-half lead, went on to defeat Port Alberni Sports Club, 7-0, at Macdonald park yesterday afternoon to win the Vancouver Island zone final of the Province Cup soccer competition.

City will meet University of British Columbia Varsity, which ousted powerful North Shore United to reach the quarter-finals, at Macdonald park next Saturday.

MORE OPPONENTS

It was expected that Victoria would move into the semi-final round after winning the Island final, as has been the case in previous seasons. However, B.C. soccer officials announced yesterday that City would continue in the cup competition with seven mainland squads.

With right-winger Chummy Crabbe and inside-right Bill McMillan combining well on the attack and wing halfbacks Dick McLaren and Harold Holroyd dominating mid-field play, City provided the slightly more than 400 fans with a scintillating display in the opening session.

The Victorians were at their best during the first 45 minutes, as their low passes continually found receivers and they enjoyed a wide edge in territorial play. Exchanges were more scrambly after the intermission. City still maintained a consistent attack, but was able to drive only two shots past goalie Tony Vanderheide.

GOALIE SHINES

Vanderheide, formerly with New Westminster of the Coast Soccer League, was the outstanding Port Alberni performer. He turned aside many labelled shots, reaching his greatest heights during the second half.

Crabbe put City in front after five minutes and passed to Ab Travis as the left-winger made it 2-0 three minutes later. McLaren, on a pass from Crabbe, and Travis on a penalty kick made it 4-0 after 28 minutes. Centre-forward Ken Hibbert, put through by Travis and McMillan, gave Victoria its final first-half tally.

Hibbert fired his second goal 10 minutes after the breather and completed his hat trick as he wound up the scoring five minutes from time after taking a goal-mouth pass from George Wright, who beat four men in setting up the goal.

Saturday's score: Heaneys 7, JBAA 0.
Next game, today: Esquimalt vs. Victoria West, Victoria West Park, 2.30 p.m.

Heaneys all but wrapped up the Victoria and District Football League's first division championship yesterday by blanking third-place JBAA, 7-0, at Victoria West park.

Banging in four goals in the first half, the Cartagemen coasted to their 15th victory in 20 games this season and grabbed an 11-point lead over Esquimalt, which can be knocked out of the title chase with one more defeat or one Heaney victory.

The Dockers clash with Victoria West at Victoria West park at 2.30 p.m. in today's only local soccer action.

EARLY START

Veteran Arnie Ferguson started Heaneys on their way with a goal at two minutes and Frank Grealy boosted the winners into a 2-0 lead after 20 minutes. Tom Rimmer and Nelson Crisp added goals before half-time and Grealy, Stan Wiseman and Frank McEvay added to the margin with second-half markers.

Mel Sellars, who usually plays at a forward position for Heaneys, moved into goal yesterday and turned in a creditable performance. Sellars made a good stop late in the second half on Fuzz Blair's penalty kick.

In a McGavin Cup semi-final match yesterday at Lansdowne park, Canadian Scottish and Punjab United battled to a 1-1 deadlock in overtime.

Russ Shipley gave the Scots a 1-0 first-half lead, but Punjab carried play in the second half and picked up the equalizer at 20 minutes. Scots, who fielded a makeshift team, held the edge in the 30-minute overtime period but couldn't break the deadlock.

School Teams Tie in Cricket

Glenlyon School colts and St. George's of Vancouver battled to a 66-66 tie after two innings of an exhibition cricket match at Windsor Park yesterday.

Ina Ogle, five for eight, and Ben Sills, six for 16, were the top bowlers for Glenlyon while Joe Clark topped the batters with 17 runs.

Anton was outstanding for the Mainland side, running up 28 runs and taking 11 wickets for 24 runs in the two innings.

Makes It Look Easy

Davy Williams, New York Giants' smooth-fielding second baseman, displays nonchalant agility while executing a double play against Pittsburgh during a National League game at New York's Polo Grounds. After making the putout at second base, Williams leaps over the sliding Pirate as he watches his throw nail another Buc at first base.

Dutch Harrison Leading Greenbrier

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (UP) — Great putting gave Dutch Harrison of St. Louis undisputed leadership in the Greenbrier open golf tournament yesterday with a 54-hole total of 199.

The 45-year-old Missourian sank three 30-foot putts and a 15-footer as he stroked his way over the Greenbrier course in 67-three under par. He carded 66 in each of the first two rounds.

Harrison's spectacular putting performance enabled him to move into today's final round with a two-stroke lead over Sam Snead, the host pro who is seeking his fourth Greenbrier title. Snead added a 67 yesterday to previous rounds of 69 and 65 for a 54-hole total of 201.

Snead muffed a chance to pull into a tie with Harrison by three-putting the 11th green for a bogey five and then missing a six-footer on the 18th green.

Bunched one stroke back of Snead at 202 were Jimmy Demaret, Johnny Revolta of Skokie, Ill., Henry Picard of Cleveland, Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia, Jack Burke, Jr., and Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh.

Mike Souchak and Shelley Mayfield were tied at 203.

Bailey Skeet Champ With Perfect Score

Ted Bailey, cracking 25 straight targets in a shoot-off with Russ Pottinger, won the Vancouver Island all-bore skeet championship at Victoria Gun Club yesterday.

Firing in near-perfect weather, shotgun experts from Vancouver Island and the mainland posted exceptional scores during the all-day competitions on the skeet layouts.

Today the gunners will take over the trap ranges of the Albert Head road grounds in the quest for titles in the annual Victoria City trap-shooting championships, which get under way at 9 a.m. and are expected to continue until evening.

ONE MISS EACH

Bailey and Pottinger, both members of the host club, shattered birds at a torrid pace in the 100-target all-bore event and each missed only once in finishing up in a deadlock with 99 of the possible 100.

In the 25-bird shoot-off, Pottinger missed his first target, then blasted his next 24, but the veteran aBiley coolly cracked 25 straight to slow away the title won last year by Hugh Neuman of Victoria Gun Club, who finished in third place.

Bailey, who had dropped his third target in the all-bore event, ran his string to 122 through the shoot-off and had smashed 152 consecutive targets before missing his next bird in later events.

The run set a record for Victoria Gun Club and gave Bailey possession of the Dr. A. D. Bechtel long-run trophy which Bill Johnston has held since he broke 123 consecutive skeet targets in June, 1953. Bailey also picked up a case of shells donated by the club to any member who breaks 100 straight.

Bailey also took possession of the Ted McFeely Trophy which goes to the B.C. resident high gun in the all-bore championship.

J. "Buck" Buckmaster won the "B" class all-bore title as he missed only twice over the 100-bird route and teamed with Jim Turner of Vancouver Gun Club for a victory in the two-man team shoot, run concurrently with the all-bore event. The pair ended up with 195x200.

Turner was the only out-of-town entrant to win an event yesterday.

In the "C" class championship, Doug Peart came out on top with a score of 92x100.

A squad from Victoria Gun Club finished up a big day for [illegible] by posting a victory in the five-man team event. The squad, composed by Neuman, Dib Noble, Stu Smith, Jack Roach and Bert Woodbury, missed seven birds in the 125-target shoot.

Lie Detector Tests Given in Drug Case

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Boxer Harold Johnson, matchmaker Pete Moran and the fighter's trainer, Skinny Davidson, were given lie detector tests Friday as police continued the investigation of the Johnson-Julio Mederos fight May 6.

Johnson was reported drugged prior to the fight and Pennsylvania state athletic commission physicians said traces of a barbiturate were found in a chemical analysis made on the fighter. Johnson collapsed in his corner after the second round.

Police inspector John F. Driscoll arranged the test for Johnson, Moran and Davidson. The inspector said he would make a statement on the results of the test "as soon as I can."

As a result of the fight, Gov. George M. Leader suspended boxing in Pennsylvania for 90 days and ordered a full-scale investigation of boxing by the state athletic commission.

Saturday's score: New Westminster 5, St. Andrews 1.

VANCOUVER (CP) — New Westminster Royals whipped in five goals in the first half Saturday to crush St. Andrews 5-1 in a Pacific Coast Soccer League fixture.

The win moved Royals into first place with eight points, one more than North Shore United.

Gogie Stewart and Harry Price each scored two goals in the first half onslaught and John Halley notched the other tally.

St. Andrews' Stu Crossan avoided a whitewash by scoring from a scramble with five minutes left. A crowd by 800 watched the well-played game.

IRISH CANCEL PRACTICE

Victoria Shamrocks have cancelled a scheduled workout at Memorial Arena this morning but the Inter-City Lacrosse League team will practise at the Arena Monday night at 7 p.m.

Esquimalt, Saanich Still Neck-and-Neck

Esquimalt and Saanich failed to break their tie for the Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association's bantam league lead yesterday as they both chalked up their second straight victories at Stevenson park.

Sparked by the five-goal performance of Tom Wyatt, Esquimalt drubbed Fairoaks, 14-5, while Saanich kept pace with an 8-3 victory over Fernwood. It was Fairoak's third straight setback and Fernwood's second loss in three games.

LATE RUSH

Esquimalt and Fairoaks were tied 3-3 at the end of the first quarter but the winners gradually pulled away and poured on the steam in the final two quarters to win handily. Mike Mason added three goals, R. Miller scored twice and Bill Knowles, John McDonald, John Larson and G. Powell each tallied once for the winners.

Leslie Brice paced the losers with two goals while Vic Wescott, D. Grant and J. Watson each scored once.

Don Craigdallie topped Saanich with three goals, Richard Shanks added two markers and Bill Parr, Doug Turner and Jim McNeil each scored once. Larry Mitchell, Denny Young and Jerry Moss were the Fernwood scorers.

ELECTRICALLY SPEAKING

Remembering that new appliances are developed every year you will want to wire for the future. For example, in 1939 there were 19 kinds of appliances while today the figure is well past the 50 mark. Therefore it is obviously wise and economical to provide for tomorrow today. Entrust your wiring only to a qualified electrician who is certified and licensed under provincial statutes. This is your protection against future hazards and expense.

Road-Builders Plan To Spend $600,000,000 This Year

BY TOM GREEN
(Colonist Ottawa Correspondent)

OTTAWA—The Canadian Good Roads Association announced Saturday night that, given favorable weather conditions, more than $600,000,000 will be spent this year by road building agencies in Canada at three levels of government, an all-time high.

Men and machines are poised for the mammoth operation. Materials and equipment are in good supply and manpower is no problem except that skilled technicians especially highway engineers are at a premium. But remembering last year the roadbuilders are keeping a keen eye on the weather "probs."

Last year would have been a record breaking year for Canada, with some $560,000,000 budgeted for roads, but because of many weeks of rain in parts of the country work was curtailed and the actual expenditure fell far short.

The report issued by the association's managing director C. W. Gilchrist shows provincial budgets account for $426,000,000 of this year's estimated expenditures. The larger municipalities towns and cities will spend some $110,000,000 on rural roads and urban streets. Federal [illegible] will amount to $27,000,000 mainly on the Trans-Canada highway.

The army expects to spend $8,000,000 on the Northwest highway system and it is estimated that some $2,000,000 will be spent by mining companies and the forest industry on development roads. The federal grade crossing contribution may also be increased.

SMALLER CENTERS

In addition the association points out there are the road and street expenditures of the smaller municipalities and centres of less than 4,000 population in Ontario and Quebec which are not covered by any official statistics. It is estimated that these expenditures will amount to between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000.

The 10 provincial governments have increased their road allocations by $58,000,000.

Canada's road program is second only to the United States among the nations of the world, from the standpoint of dollars spent and on a per-capita basis West Germany is third, Great Britain fourth and France fifth.

Railway Union Wins Increases

BY BILL MAVOR

A 10-cent an hour wage increase over 18 months has been agreed to by Island Freight Service Ltd., and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees representing 100 workers on Vancouver Island and in Vancouver.

Five cents was effective April 1 and a further five cent increase is effective December 31. The contract expires October 31 1956. Wages now are $1.65 to $1.70 an hour. One additional statutory holiday for a total of eight also was awarded.

An agreement covering about 75 employees of Evans, Coleman and Johnson Bros. Ltd. has been reached by the same union, negotiator Robert Smeal reports.

Five cents-an-hour wage boost, two additional statutory holidays for a total of nine, time-and-one-half after eight hours and double time after 11 hours, effective for one year from April are the new gains.

Truck drivers will receive from $1.60 to $1.70 an hour and other classifications vary from $1.51 to $1.90 an hour.

Bargaining on demands of coast fishermen for 1955 salmon prices will begin Wednesday at Vancouver between the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union and the Fisheries Association of B.C.

Prices proposed by the union this year, with last year's rate in brackets, are: sockeye, 27 cents, (22); coho, 18 cents, (13); pinks, 11 cents, (7½); summer and fall chums, nine and 11 cents, (5½ and eight.)

TLC unions in Victoria will send representatives to a meeting Friday in the labor hall to plan a brief in support of an increased minimum wage in the manufacturing industry.

The brief will be presented to Board of Industrial Relations at a public hearing June 6.

Bargaining authority for laborers and certain other employees of Baynes Manning Ltd., employed at Nanaimo Junior High School and on the Chemainus water pipeline, has been granted the Laborers Local 1093, Victoria, by the Labor Relations Board.

Union business agent Earl Allen says the authority also covers the company employees elsewhere on the Island.

TLC locals meeting this week include carpenters riggers federal firefighters meat cutters Monday; electricians master plumbers Tuesday. TLC central council drivers sheet metal workers Thursday; laborers electricians Friday.

CCL locals meeting include CCL council Wednesday; Div 276 CBRE Thursday.

"Bargain" in home electronic service are as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth! Here's why—

The expert service technician and the other professional people must undergo years of study and apprenticeship to earn the fundamentals of his skill. And a minimum investment of from $4,000 to $6,000 per shop technician is required for the necessary equipment to service a highly complex set. Finally, through manufacturers' training courses and his own technical journals, he must keep up with changes that are developing faster than any ever did in medicine, law, or dentistry. These best equipped to apply modern scientific methods are almost certain to be most economical for you and definitely more satisfactory in the long run.

Unfortunately, as in any business there will always be a few fly-by-night operators. But patients, clients and TV set owners who recognize that you get only what you pay for will never get gypped. There are no gimmicks in the game, but there is good service awaiting you at FAIR PRICES.

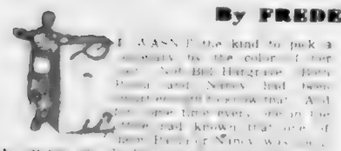
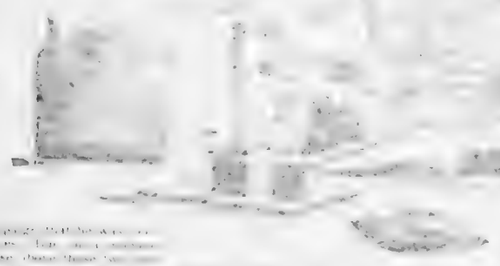
THE Big CHANCE

By FREDERICK LAING



I WASN'T the kind to pick a romance by the color. I had met Sub-Lt. Bill Hargrave from Bristol and Nelson had been around enough to know that one of those Royal Navy types was not to be taken lightly. But when Hargrave was standing there with his head bent and his eyes on me, I wished I'd never been born. Or that I'd never left home. Or that I was only a scrub outside the door. Maybe I was only a scrub.



Two girls, one job — and as added incentive there was handsome and eligible Bill Hargrave. A short, short story complete on this page.

The Tumult and the Shouting

By GRANTLAND RICE
ARTICLE X

THE first time I saw Babe Ruth was in April, 1919, at Tampa, Florida. Babe blasted one batting practice pitch clear out of the park into a plowed field. I gauged that trip as about 500 feet—not bad, even without a publicity man around to check the distance with a tape measure. While Ruth hit, I watched, and Ed Barrow, the Red Sox manager, talked.

Of all the sluggers the advent of the lively ball has spawned there was the only one I ever knew who never shortened up or choked his grip when the count ran to two strikes. He gripped his bat with the knob of the handle "polished" in his right hand and swung it in a pet three handed swing. The Babe liked plenty of lumber in his bat, also. Many of his bats weighed 42 ounces and 44 ounces more than the average bat.

Ugly Humpback Sells Better As Tasty Pink

By C. J. GUIGUET

PINK salmon are called humpback salmon by just about everyone along the Pacific coast. The term pink came into common usage in recent years through the marketing efforts of the commercial fisheries, I'm told. Apparently many people who will eat pink salmon won't touch one that is called humpback.

As a sporting fish the pink (if you prefer the name, is rated below the coho and spring salmon, mainly I think because they are not caught by trolling like the other two as often as those fish are. They do however, take a fair trolling sometimes, and are capable of putting up a good scrap. As food, they are excellent and many people prefer them for frying to any of the other salmon.

CAN BE UGLY

Humpbacks as most sportsmen call them are fine looking fish in the open sea but in the approaches to and around the rivers they are perhaps as ugly as anything that swims. They become hump-sided, slimy and razor-backed and a most pronounced hump is present just behind the head particularly in the males. The hump on the [illegible]

Dodger and Tom Mack [illegible] was my favorite time and we used to log the boat so that it was with the nudger running just fast enough. At Sherrington I [illegible] and in some years we had the [illegible] for three days. A few years ago [illegible] was shown as the best [illegible] in connection with [illegible] a dodger and [illegible] very effective for humpies.

GOOD CANNERS

These fish may be [illegible] just about anywhere when [illegible] fall spawners and I've seen [illegible] of the Queen Charlottes at mid-gut. Some years ago [illegible] Howe Sound the first [illegible] were particularly [illegible] over [illegible] the surface [illegible] Actually [illegible] are an excellent canning fish and in the [illegible] years there [illegible] very little [illegible] for [illegible] anglers alone, but [illegible] would [illegible] for [illegible] anglers alone, but [illegible] would [illegible] for [illegible] anglers alone, but [illegible] would

Yacht Club Makes Yearly Use of Wind Wafts

YACHTING, sport of good fellows as well as opulent princes, has been a favorite pastime of the former for quite some time hereabouts. There were racing fans, too, all of seventy-five years ago, more than a decade before the organization known today as the Royal Victoria Yacht Club began its real existence in the year 1892.

Future Plans For Chinook Still Secret

New speculation on future steamer service between Victoria and Port Angeles was heard yesterday, but officials of Black Ball Line Ltd. again refused comment on their plans for Mv. Chinook

A report from Vancouver said Chinook would replace Mv Kahloke on the Nanaimo-Vancouver run, the older vessel leaving a part of the expanded service between Vancouver and Powell River.

After Victoria business men told The Daily Colonist last week that Chinook might join Kahloke or start a sailing Saturday service Black Ball officials said there was "no truth in it." But they would not confirm another report that service to Port Angeles would remain unchanged.

Yesterday it was reported that a smaller vessel might be used on Black Ball's Looping favorites of the Chinook are being converted at the government graving dock at Esquimalt. Ship inspectors must decide if the vessel measures up to Canadian requirements before she can be issued a certificate of registry.

To Carry Victoria's Hopes

Victoria's hopes in the Swiftsure race will ride high on the Gometra, which will be skippered by Ned Ashe of Victoria, who sailed her to second place in her class last year and will be competing in his eighth Swiftsure classic. Gometra is owned by Kenneth Glass and Elmer Palmer of Vancouver, and Victorians in her crew will include Hamish Dunn and Roy Murdock.

Big Season Ahead

Sail-Past Opens Yacht Season; Colorful Swiftsure Classic Set

A colorful sail-past at Royal Victoria Yacht Club yesterday afternoon opened the 1955 yachting season, which will see the Victoria club participate in two of the world's biggest yacht races.

On May 28 Victoria will be the scene of the sporty Swiftsure Race, biggest ocean yacht race in the Pacific Northwest and one of the biggest in North America.

In July the RVYC will be host at the Gorge bay finishing line of the International Cruiser Race, biggest predicted log power boat race in the world. Another big event anticipated this year is the Royal Regatta.

CLASSIC ENTRIES

About 20 sailing craft are expected to compete in this year's Swiftsure Race, for which entries close on May 23.

Six at least will be from British Columbia including Bill Morrow's Elusive, the Urry brothers' 71-foot ketch Janetta, the Cressett with Peter Cleaver of Victoria as one of the crew, the navy's auxiliary training ketch HMCS Oriole, Capt. W. B. Adams, 46-foot ketch Imogene and the Gometra.

The Gometra is owned by Kenneth Glass and Elmer Palmer of Vancouver and will be skippered by Ned Ashe of Victoria who sailed her in second place in her class last year. The crew this year will include Hamish Dunn and Roy Murdock of Victoria.

Entries from the United States will include well known trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific ocean racers.

The Swiftsure Race will start off Brotchie Ledge at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, May 28, and will probably finish at the Victoria Harbor entrance late on the Sunday afternoon or early on the Monday morning, depending on the weather.

TESTS SEAMANSHIP

The race will be from Brotchie Ledge to the Swiftsure lightvessel and back to Victoria and is considered one of the most severe tests of seamanship to be found in any sailing racing.

Three Royal Canadian Navy ships will assist in the race, two minesweepers as escort and rescue ships, and a gate vessel as committee boat and starting vessel. The United States Coast Guard will supply air cover as well as coast guard vessels.

Victorians will have an opportunity to see the competing boats on the night of Friday, May 27, dressed and at anchor in the Inner Harbor.

At 8 p.m. Mayor Claude Harrison, RVYC Commodore F. W. Nicolls, and Andrew Wright, vice-commodore of Pacific International Yachting Association, sponsors of the race, will make a tour of all the yachts to welcome the skippers and crews.

SEA CHANTIES

At 9 p.m. Sea Cadets will perform the Sunset Ceremonial in front of the legislative buildings and at 9:15, on board W. G. Tellier's schooner Black Dog, the Meistersingers will give a program of sea chanties.

Victorians will be able to follow the race on a large chart that will be set up in the corner window of the T. Eaton store. Positions of each competing boat will be plotted and there will be a running commentary broadcast from escort ships.

A sound truck will be at Holland Point for the start of the race to describe what is going on as yachts jockey for position at the starting line.

Since 1950 the Swiftsure Race has started and finished at Victoria, which is now the permanent headquarters of the race.

Perfect weather marked the sail-past at Cadboro Bay yesterday afternoon as just enough wind to billow and sails flatted over the bay.

A "best fleet" flag from the RVYC and the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association (Esquimalt Squadron) sailed past Commodore F. W. Nicolls' yacht Tomoto Spirit in line ahead formation.

ENSIGNS DIPPED

Ensigns were dipped as each boat passed the Commodore's yacht.

Fleet Captain J. H. B. Gann, in his auxiliary sloop, Seatime, headed the procession which included 18 sail boats and 12 cruisers.

Following the sail-past informal racing events were held in the bay and the annual opening day dance was held in the clubhouse last night.

Here Tuesday

Imperial Prince of the Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan Jean M. Lawrence, an engineer from Oklahoma City, Okla., will visit Victoria Tuesday on his special trip to meet members of DOKK temples of Pythias and Pythian Sisters in Spain, in the Knights of Pythias Hall, 721 Cormorant street, for luncheon at noon.

You Need Permit For Beach Fire

Victoria fire department officials reminded citizens yesterday that permits must be obtained from RCMP before a beach fire can be lit.

Reminder was issued after a disregarded beach fire set several logs aflame on beaches at Holland Point. Firemen were on the scene for one hour and 22 minutes.

There is a penalty if you leave a fire, officials said.

Saanich Checks Oil Permits

Saanich Fire Chief Joseph Law yesterday warned that prosecutions will follow delivery of fuel oil in Saanich to consumers not holding oil burner permits.

He will follow the lead of the Langford and Colwood fire districts where oil dealers have been brought to court and fined.

Since the crackdown in the Langford District Fire Chief Rod Bayles reports he has issued 160 oil burner installation permits, has applications for 50 more, and applications are still coming in to his office. He has found a number of faulty installations.

Under the Fire Marshalls Act the onus is on the oil delivery firm, but the consumer is forced to get a permit because his source of fuel oil is dried up if he doesn't.

Drop in Price of Tea May Be Short Lived

Tea prices will drop from eight to 12 cents a pound in many Greater Victoria stores tomorrow, but the lower prices may last only a few days.

Following a reduction of about eight cents a pound in wholesale tea prices, one Victoria supermarket announced yesterday that its price range for various brands would be from $1.12 to $1.39 a pound when stores open tomorrow.

Former price range was $1.20 to $1.51 a pound.

GOING BACK

Another super market which said at first its prices would not be changed stated later that competition will be met, but officials predicted that prices will go back to the old levels in a few days "so as to maintain correct mark up."

Explanation was that stores have been selling some brands of tea at a loss since they refused to increase prices when wholesale charges rose 10 cents a pound three months ago.

Retail price of one brand of tea has been $1.20 a pound despite the fact that wholesale charge was $1.21½ a pound. Stores have been taking the loss because of the "very competitive nature of the business," officials said.

Price was not increased they said, because "we didn't feel we could sell tea any higher."

One group of stores was reported to have cut prices Friday but restored them to old levels yesterday.

Tea company officials said the drop is a result of reaction to high tea prices which weakened the tea market and caused a price reduction at the source.

Director Blasts Union

Irresponsibility Cited In Furniture Dispute

Officers of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL), Local 1-217 in Vancouver, were termed "irresponsible" and accused here yesterday by the managing director of Restmore Manufacturing Company of spreading "malicious lies."

Arthur D. Baillie flew here "to give our side of the story" while four Victoria stores dealing in the company's goods were picketed by union members.

Mr. Baillie's 200 employees form the biggest in furniture and bedding on the west coast, was brought to a standstill last week when 200 workers were "fired."

The employees claim they are the victims of a lockout.

Senior shop steward Tom Haggart is named by company officials to be the stumbling block that prevents a return to work, which Restmore has offered the workers.

NAMES LEADERS

Mr. Baillie named Mr. Haggart and union president Lloyd Whelan as the "irresponsible leaders."

The company head claimed the union had already driven two companies out of the furniture business.

He said the trouble started last week when Mr. Haggart refused to make out his time sheet in the morning instead of at night. Mr. Baillie said the new procedure was on company time.

The director said the shop steward was told he was fired by one of the bosses. Next morning he stood outside the plant at starting time with the rest of the employees.

MEN FIRED

They were told Mr. Haggart was dismissed and that they should return to work. When they refused, they were fired, said Mr. Baillie.

He said they were sent a letter the next day offering them their jobs back "without prejudice" with the exception of Mr. Haggart.

"There has been no lockout," said Mr. Baillie yesterday, "they can still have their jobs back."

He added that Restmore is the only union furniture plant in Western Canada. The IWA has been organized there for five years.

"We are all for unions and we respect the leaders of the IWA, but it is with the leaders of this 6,000-member local that we have our complaints," said the director.

BOOKS OPEN

He said the minimum wage paid at the plant was $1.25 an hour, and said union stories of its costs are pure "fairy tales, but lies." Mr. Baillie said the company's books are open for inspection.

The company head claims there has been illegal picketing at his plant and at retailers dealing in their goods. He said a court injunction had been taken out to prevent this action.

"They have since violated this injunction," said Mr. Baillie, who indicated that court action is pending.

"The leaders have shown a flagrant disregard for our injunction and provincial labor laws," he asserted.

About 60 workers have been hired at the plant since the labor trouble started, through selective service and newspaper advertising.

"We are paying them union money," said Mr. Baillie.

He said the company will meet Monday with the employees, labor department officials and a conciliation officer.

IN NEGOTIATIONS

The company and the union were in the middle of wage negotiations when the trouble broke out. A conciliation award of a 3-cent-an-hour increase effective last January with another 5 cents in August had been recommended.

"But as it stands now, Mr. Haggart is the stumbling block," said Mr. Baillie, who returned to Vancouver last night. He has been managing director since last July.

Sports, Feasts

City Indians Promise Spectacular Festival

Spectacular water sports, feasts of barbecued salmon, a christening and exciting games will be only part of the Victoria Indian Festival at the Songhees reservation May 22 and 23, in which Indians from Vancouver Island, the B.C. Mainland and Washington state will take part.

Program was announced yesterday by Percy Ross, festival chairman and former chief of the Songhees tribe.

A choir of Indians will open the festival at 10:30 a.m. May 22, with an open-air high mass. Field sports will begin two hours later and at 2:45 p.m. a festival queen will be chosen from among candidates of the Songhees, West Saanich, Cowichan and Sooke tribes.

The christening of a papoose, the child of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Underwood of East Saanich, who were married at the festival last year, will follow the queen's coronation.

Ceremonial masked dances will take place before and after the christening. An Indian name to be given to the papoose will not be disclosed until the christening.

Water sports which begin on Esquimalt harbor at 5 p.m. will include single-paddle and double-paddle canoe races, mop fights, tip-overs and 11 paddle war canoe races by men and women of 12 tribes.

Log hirling is also scheduled and winners of the war canoe races will receive a challenge trophy donated by Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace.

Admission to the grounds is 50 cents but children will be admitted free. There will be train and pony rides for children and barbecued salmon clam chowder, fresh crabs and hot dogs.

B.C. Electric is arranging bus transportation to the reserve. Festival committee is arranging for signs on Admirals, from Craigflower north, to point the way to the reserve and there is parking for 2,000 cars.

Program will be the same Monday, except for high mass and the christening, and will end with a la-hal game, a guessing game for prizes which is played as Indians sing native songs and beat their drums around camp fires on open fields.

Bazaar Sells Out Quickly

Bulk of the goods at the Victoria Shriners' bazaar held yesterday at the curling rink was sold within three hours from the time the doors opened at 1 p.m.

A vast array of articles at various gaily-decorated stalls didn't last long before an eager assault by more than 1,000 bargain hunters.

Pies at 15 cents each and barrows of tasty cakes and home-made pies were big favorites.

The big crowd watched club president W. Scott Kirkpatrick crown seven-year-old Mardi Campbell as queen of the bazaar.

She was present with her youthful court at the function last night when she met Doreen Wells, "Miss Victoria."

The bazaar was jointly sponsored by Daughters of the Nile, Victoria Gizeh Shrine Club and Gizeh Shrine Temple band. Proceeds go to Shrine charities. The take will be counted today.

Boots Lured Away

'Stop! That's My Dog!' Child Yells as Pet Stolen

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Boots, a four-month-old female German shepherd dog from the same litter as two pups stolen a month ago, was grabbed from a Victoria street yesterday as his small owner called "Stop! That's my dog."

Mrs. H. R. McLaughlin, 217 Beechwood, said her three-year-old son Pat, who shares ownership of Boots with brothers Larry, 14, and Gordon, 11, was playing near his home when a small blue car drove up.

Two women and a little girl got out of the car, asked Pat who owned the pup and what was the dog's name.

After getting the answers the women called, "Here Boots . . . here Boots," put him in the car and drove off as Pat shouted a protest.

The boys were given Boots a month ago, about the time that two pups from the same litter were stolen from a parked car. They were returned to the SPCA after The Daily Colonist reported them lost, strayed or stolen.

Linda Stevens, 7, 2734 Belmont, owned the pups, who are similar to Boots — tan in color, with a white chest and black-marked tail.

Boots has no licence.

Leading Saleswoman Runs Successful Home

Until six years ago when Mrs. Beatrice Bishop returned to her native city of Victoria the thought of selling life insurance had never crossed her mind. Since that time she has climbed to be leading sales woman in the Women's Division of Sun Life Assurance Company in the Canadian and South American Division and listed in the worldwide organization in 1954. This year she is leading the ladies in the world production.

Mrs. Bishop is a perfect example of a woman who is combining a successful business career with a happy family life. Wife of Capt. H. G. Bishop, Betty as she is known to her friends has a full and interesting private life. In her own words she maintains a 100 per cent relationship with her family, her husband daughter Dyna now Mrs. Hunter Poole and Brian her 23-year-old son who is at present an articled land surveyor.

Both her business and family life have been built on firm foundations with sincerity and friendship. Mrs. Bishop is a person who once undertaking something gives it her whole hearted support. There is not the slightest bit of the high pressure sales routine about Mrs. Bishop in fact her well modulated voice is quietly assured.

Naturally one is curious to know what background and training are behind a person who can accomplish things so efficiently. Mrs. Bishop says she had no training for any thing and that her life up to six years ago could be termed that of a social butterfly. She cheerfully admits to rounds of bridge and tea parties with plenty of servants to rely on.

Born in Victoria Mrs. Bishop the former Betty Copeman belongs to a highly respected family in the West. A family of sound citizens although connected more with the world of art and letters than with business.

At the age of 18 years Betty entered St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing mainly because her ambition was to travel and as a trained nurse she would be able to satisfy that ambition. A year later fate stepped in by way of an offer to her uncle Hubert Wilson British consul-general in Buenos Aires for Betty to be his chaperone. So to Buenos Aires to act as official hostess at the British Consulate.

Her travels had started. She went to Buenos Aires via New York and the West Indies. The next year the youthful bride-to-be went to England a fateful trip for the ship's captain was to become her future husband. She returned to Buenos Aires and then returned to England where her marriage took place. All this before she was 21.

The Bishops again went to Buenos Aires for a three-year stay but were back in England when war broke out in 1939. By 1942 they were back in Buenos Aires on a secret contract with a shipyard and when the time was up the family decided to return to Victoria a fact they have never regretted.

Mrs. Bishop has developed into a keen gardener since her return and she spends any spare time working among her plants and shrubs. The Bishop bungalow type home is set high enough to command a view of the mountains and is surrounded by a lawn studded with young oaks, with a gold fish pool nestled at the foot of a delightful rockery.

Mrs. Bishop does all her own housework, planning and making meals etc. for her family. If you were to call at the Bishop home some morning you would probably find Mrs. Bishop busy at her tasks with Ming, her cherished Siamese cat perched on her shoulder. Ming is curious, and according to her mistress, fairly creeping with personality. This energetic woman also finds time to knit and sew for her new grandson Kevin Poole of whom she is very proud.

Mrs. Bishop likes to read good books, listen to good music and to see good movies. She insists that they be good or she has no time for them.

Victoria school bands will play at the opening of each performance, which will include square dances, Dutch, Italian, Norwegian, Ukranian, Chinese, French, German, Mexican and Polish folk songs and dances.

East Indian dances will be presented and Port Alberni Indians will perform West Coast Indian dances.

There will also be dances from the British Isles, Welsh folk songs and Scottish dances during the festival.

Handicraft exhibits will be on display and will include Swiss, West Coast Indian, Swedish, Scottish, East Indian, Canadian, German, Norwegian, Ukranian, Chinese, Grecian and Eastonian handicrafts.

Masters of ceremonies will be Mr. E. Costain, Mr. Ron Herod, Mr. E. Lavesey and Major A. Plows.

Dr. W. G. Black, regional officer, Department of Immigration and Citizenship, Vancouver, will be present on Monday, and Mr. John Gough, senior municipal inspector of schools of Greater Victoria, will attend on Monday. The honored guests will be introduced by Mrs. T. R. Kelly, president of the Victoria Folk Society.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Stocker Motoring In States After Wedding at St. Columba's

Tulips, narcissi and apple blossoms decorated St. Columba Church last evening for the wedding of Daisy Alicia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Chandler, Eaton Avenue, and George Allison Stocker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Stocker, Joan Crescent. The church choir was in attendance and during the signing of the register Miss E. Bennett of Hollywood, Calif., sang "Gracious Spirit, Holy Ghost." Rev. N. A. Lowe officiated.

The bride was a picture in her wedding gown of white tulle over satin, the full length skirt embroidered with sequin bows. Her lace jacket was styled with bishop point sleeves and embroidered with seed pearls. Her fingertip veil was caught to a tiara of seed pearls and sequins and for "something old" she had garters worn by brides in her family for more than 200 years. A bouquet of red carnations and lily of the valley, a strand of pearls and matching pearl earrings completed her ensemble. Mr. Chandler gave his daughter in marriage.

Mrs. J. J. Baur was matron of honor for her sister and wore a ballerina-length frock of pink velva-ray over rose satin and Mrs. L. Knott and Miss Patsy Bennett wore dresses similarly styled of green velva-ray over darker green satin. All three carried bouquets of yellow tulips. The little flower girls, Misses Heather and Holly Sanders, were dressed alike in yellow velva-ray frocks over darker yellow satin and carried baskets of sweet peas.

Mr. Lloyd Moorhouse of North Vancouver was best man for his brother-in-law while Mr. Peter Chandler of North Vancouver, brother of the bride, and Mr. Brian Bassett showed the guests to their pews.

A reception was held at the Olde England Inn, where the bride's table covered with a beautiful drawn thread cloth belonging to the bride's family was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake made and decorated by the bride's aunt, Mrs. G. Bennett. Mr. H. Downard proposed the toast.

Leaving by motor for a wedding trip in Canada and the United States the bride traveled in a suit of French blue with coffee brown accessories and pink hat. Mr. and Mrs. Stocker will reside at 1160 Richardson Street for the summer. Mr. Stocker is a dental student at the University of Toronto.

Wed in St. Michael's

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Rieche leave St. Michael's and All Angels Church, Royal Oak, following their marriage on May 7. Mrs. Rieche, the former Heather Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hughes, Elk Lake, was attended by her sister, Miss Sara Hughes, left, and her niece, little Daphne Trump.

Penelope Braide Bride Of Lt. Cmdr. David Teare

A wedding of wide interest was solemnized by Rev. J. G. Brown, DD, in the Church of Our Lord on Saturday when Penelope Ann, only daughter of Col. and Mrs. R. W. Braide, Despard avenue, became the bride of Lt. Cmdr. David E. Teare, RN.

Calla lilies, snapdragons and white blossoms with touches of yellow, mainly attracted in the church by friends of the bride, created a lovely setting for the mid-afternoon ceremony. Mr. J. Ingram Smith, presided at the organ.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the attractive auburn-haired bride was a picture in her white, ankle-length gown of heavy Guipure lace fashioned on princess lines with silk godets. Her chapel veil of silk illusion was held by a coronet of crystal and pearls lent by her aunt, Mrs. J. C. Hibbard. White iris and stephanotis formed the bridal bouquet.

Miss Jane Hall, of Vancouver, the bride's only attendant, wore a gown of green taffeta, styled similarly to the bride's dress with folds of the material accenting the softly draped V-neckline. Gerbera in sunset shades, created the floral band which she wore in her hair and were repeated in her small bouquet.

The groom, son of Mrs. Teare and the late Lt.-Col. R. J. Teare, London, England, had his brother-in-law, Lt.-Cmdr. Ivor H. Ash, RCN, as groomsman. Ushers were the bride's brother, Mr. David Braide of Montreal, Mr. George Nation, Vancouver and Mr. James Helmsen, Nanaimo.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Rockland avenue home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Col. and Mrs. B. B. Ker. Mrs. Braide, who assisted the young couple in receiving, chose a parchment colored ensemble with black accessories.

A sword belonging to the bride's uncle, Rear Admiral J. C. Hibbard, DSC, CD, RCN, was used to cut the triple-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table. Rear Admiral Hibbard proposed the toast to his niece.

Following a Mainland honeymoon, Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. Teare will return to Victoria prior to leaving for Halifax where they will reside temporarily. For travelling, Mrs. Teare chose a sand-colored suit with loose fitting jacket and white and avocado accessories.

Exclusive Styles Not High Priced

Looking for a dress that's exclusive yet moderately priced? I've found a store that stocks just what you want. Each garment is individually styled and chosen with a view to versatility and economy.

I must admit that I was first attracted to the store by a stiffened crinkle cotton dress in the window. The flared skirt in charcoal shade with diagonal white striping and border of tiny white diamonds was offset by the sleeveless bodice of white [illegible] emphasizing the deep V-neckline. A belt of black patent added the final touch to this uncrushable, soil-resistant cotton priced at $19.95.

It's amazing! That's the two-way dress that can be worn front or back. Of stiffened rose-toned nylon, the yoke and skirt flaring over a self-crinoline are striped with white and charcoal. Wear it as a V-necked shirtwaist with pink pearl buttons down the front or reverse it so that the high collar is in front and the low V in the back. The sleeves are bracelet length and feature the same button detailing. Price is about $25.

Five Spicy Scents

No doubt while you shopped in one department store last week you too, were enjoying the throaty warblings of the realistic birds in golden cages. The joyous song of one led me to a display of the newly-imported Hawaiian perfumes and colognes.

Spicy, yet light enough for daytime wear throughout the summer, these come in five scents: coral, ginger memories, jade and joss, sarong and pikak!

Two bottles of the perfume come in a little Hawaiian grass shack along with a pair of tropical flower earrings. The sets are $3.50, $4.50 or $8, according to the amount of perfume.

For $1.75 theres a miniature surf board topped with a small bottle of perfume or a large bottle of cologne surrounded by a lei of tropical blooms.

For the Graduate

A different gift for the sweet girl graduate is the novel musical powder box on display in a local beauty shop. It's a Dresden-like figurine of a young girl in net and feather pom with skirt of multi-tiered lace. Lift the upper portion of the figure and the strains of a Viennese waltz will greet you as you open the cleverly concealed powder compartment. Colors are sky blue or pink and the price only $7.50.

WA Hears Report On Convention

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — The April meeting of the WA to All Saints' Church was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. McMartin with Mrs. G. R. Hamilton presiding and 10 members present.

Following the Bible reading from the 13th chapter of St. John by Mrs. McMartin, the chapter from the mission study book on the medical missionaries and their work against disease and ignorance in India was read by Mrs. C. F. Lees-Dale.

After discussion it was suggested that a joint meeting with the WA of St. Johns, Cobble Hill be held in order that all members might meet the chairman of the Cowichan deanery, Mrs. W. H. Bryant.

An interesting report of the GA convention in Victoria was given by Mrs. J. Mainwell. She was pleased to note that the group of Shawnigan Lake-Cobble Hill girls had won several awards.

British Women Seek Election

BY RON EVANS

LONDON (CP) — Almost 100 women will desert their offices, school rooms and laboratories to fight for seats in the House of Commons.

So far, 91 women have entered the lists as candidates in the May 26 election. The Labor party has placed 42 in the field, the Conservatives 33 and the Liberals 14.

Mrs. Jenny Davies will try to oust Liberal Sir Rhys Hopkin Morris in Carmarthenshire for the Welsh Nationalist party while farther south Mrs. Anne Powell is carrying the Communist banner in the coal-mining area of Rhondda East. Nominations close Tuesday.

Britain's tweedy feminists are hopeful that this year they may top their representation of 21 in the 1945-50 parliament, largest number in the 36 years since Nancy Lady Astor became Britain's first woman MP.

SEEK RE-ELECTION

In the 1951 election, 74 women fought for places in the male-dominated House and 17 won. At dissolution May 6, there were 20 MPs in skirts.

All but one—Mrs. Patricia Ford, 33-year-old housewife who won the Northern Ireland seat of Down North as an Ulster Unionist in a 1953 by-election—will seek re-election.

At least three women who have come within sight of cabinet rank are sweeping into battle. Auburn-haired Pat Hornsby-Smith, 40, for four years parliamentary secretary to the health ministry in the last government, seeks to increase her 5,000 majority of 9,851 in Chislehurst, Kent. Florence Horsbrugh, Conservative education minister from 1951 to 1954, will contest Moss Side, Manchester, where her majority in the last election was a comfortable 10,878.

Dr. Edith Summerskill, 54, Socialist minister of national insurance 1950-51 and present Labor party chairman, tackles Warrington in Lancaster after losing Fulham West through boundary changes under redistribution. Warrington is regarded as a safe Labor seat.

An apparent certainty to enter the House for the first time is Mrs. Evelyn Emmet, 73-year-old widow with eight grandchildren who is chairman of the Conservative party. She will fight the Sussex seat of East Grinstead, where the Tory plurality last time was 18,532. She's opposed by another [illegible]

CHAMPION CAMPAIGNS

Labor's Mrs. Bessie Braddock, 210-pound champion of Liverpool dockers, goes into the campaign after a tough fight within the Liverpool exchange constituency. Six weeks ago, the local Labor party turned her down as candidate but reversed its decision under pressure from the national organization. Mrs. Braddock meets another woman candidate, Conservative Mrs. Anne Papworth, 47-year-old retired schoolteacher.

Two Conservative candidates will find themselves under the political spotlight in fights for Labor-held marginal seats. Mrs. Janet Shearer, 38, contests Edinburgh's South seat, where the Socialist majority in 1951 was only 72, and Mrs. P. McLaughlin will try to knock down the slight Labor majority of 25 votes in Belfast West.

Another distinguished newcomer, Lady Huggins, wife of Sir John Huggins, governor of Jamaica from 1943 to 1951, will try to take the Scots seat of Dunbarton West for the Conservatives. Labor's Cyril Bence ran up a 3,426-vote plurality there in 1951.

A vivacious grandmother, Lady Huggins is known in the Clydeside district as the "blonde bombshell."

The youngest woman candidates are Labor's Sir Tufton Beamish, 24, a reporter who escaped a Tory majority of 1,097 in Harwich, Essex, Conservative Anne Marsh, 24-year-old miss can who fights a 12,000-vote Socialist margin in Bilston, Staffordshire; and Liberal Barbara Durwell, 26-year-old research chemist, who contests Bath.

To Be Christened Today

Deborah Elizabeth are the names to be bestowed by Archdeacon A. E. deL. Nunns on the 4½-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ramsay at a christening ceremony in St. Mary's Church this afternoon. The baby will have as godparents Mr. and Mrs. Ian Hoggarth, Victoria, and Miss Corrine Becotte, Fort William, Ont. Deborah Elizabeth is pictured with her mother and three-year-old brother, Gregory Hugh.

Mothers Get Floral Garlands At Shawnigan CGIT Meeting

SHAWNIGAN LAKE Mothers of the CGIT members were guests at the recent CGIT meeting, held at the Manse. A special programme had been arranged for the evening by the group and their leader Mrs. R. B. Knipe.

A garland of flowers, (an idea derived from the study [illegible] presented to each mother present, Mrs. L. Edgson, Mrs. E. Swahn, Mrs. B. Wiley, Mrs. B. Stevens, Mrs. J. Maunsell, Mrs. A. Griffiths and the special guests Mrs. R. Marshall and Rev. R. B. Knipe.

The meeting opened with Miss Penny White, president, leading in the opening ceremony.

The purpose of each portion (the opening ceremony, the business session, the worship service, the projects and the closing ceremony) of each meeting was explained by Mrs. Knipe after she had welcomed the guests.

She also explained that each member to receive a chevron on her uniform must have at least seventy five percent attendance record at church and Sunday school services.

Following games and singsong Miss J. Maunsell was narrator for the skit taken from the study book on India, with Inga Swahn, Candy Lyon, Eunice Nikirk and Anne Wilson as actors.

Roseanne Wiley and Hazel Edgson read the chapter from the mission study book.

The meeting was closed with the worship service, conducted by Penny White and Jackie Evans.

Beauty and You

By MARION MATTHEWS

Perhaps the war will never end between the shower and the tub addicts and while it isn't wise to take sides in this matter, it is true that each has its own special values.

When it comes to body texture alone, the shower is able to make monumental claims. It takes something as tough and tough as a bass scrub to produce a skin that is as soft as silk. Showering does an especially efficient job on the department because standing up you can rub harder with brush or sponge and get at more spots where such friction can really stimulate circulation.

A technique that produces the best results under the shower is to step first under the spray until you're wet all over, then move to the dry parts of the skin or direct the nozzle away from you. Then soap all over until you are covered by a luxurious lather. Then comes the friction scrub with whatever gadget suits you, or strapped sponge. When you feel a glow of cleanliness all over, step back under the spray for an invigorating rinse.

Another claim the shower can make is its ability to change temperature at the flick of your wrist. The change from hot or warm water cascading over you to a cool needle spray does wonderful things for circulation.

While the tub devotee may argue that the bath is more relaxing and is excellent for those long beauty sessions when you can manage by varying the spray, force and temperature. A fast shower head with you get a spray medium or light spray. The temperature should be a little [illegible] degrees or so cooler than you would like for comfort. Soap slowly, skip the brush scrub and rinse as [illegible]. Blot your self dry with a bath sheet or snuggle into a terry cloth robe. You dry by absorption instead of friction this way.

Hospital Marks Date

Royal Jubilee Opened 65 Years Ago

It Was in the Suburbs Then

By JAMES K. NESBITT

This week 65 years ago the doors were opened for the first time to the first wing of the present Royal Jubilee Hospital.

There had been a Royal Hospital before that, much closer to the business section of the [illegible] Victoria's golden jubilee, the prefix Royal was added to the name and plans made for the building of a new hospital.

(To mark this 65th birthday, the hospital's women's auxiliary will hold a coffee party in the nurses' home next Thursday.)

It was May 21, 1890, that the fine new hospital was opened by one of Queen Victoria's sons, Prince Arthur, Duke of Connaught, later governor general of Canada. His Royal Highness came ashore here that morning from the liner Abyssinia, inbound from Japan, spent the day here, and left that evening for Vancouver. His duchess was with him.

The request to open the new hospital didn't reach the duke until he stepped ashore, but he accepted with alacrity. In the lieutenant-governor's carriage, the Royal couple drove to the hospital, a long way out in those days, quite in the country, or at least in the suburbs.

The Daily Colonist had noted the location:

"The site of the hospital is well chosen. A few hundred yards back from the Cadboro Bay Road, standing on a fine elevation and commanding a view of the blue straits and the towering peak of old Mount Baker beyond, the hospital possesses a situation of rare scenic beauty and salubrity advantage. It is reached by a drive of about two miles over one of the most beautiful roads in Canada and is far enough away from the life and bustle of the city to ensure that quiet which is necessary to the sick.

FIRST WING—IT'S STILL THERE

MET BY DIGNITARIES

The duke and duchess were met at the door by the hospital secretary and committee. Such stalwart citizens as Robert Ward, James Fell, W. C. Wilson, D. R. Ker, David, George Hall and Alex Wilson.

Miss Grant, daughter of the mayor, "had the honor of presenting H. Royal Highness with a [illegible] made by the nurses in training and [illegible]."

Royal party visited the various sections of the building. At their departure three hearty [illegible]

A year before that the cornerstone had been laid by Mrs. Hugh Nelson, the lieutenant-governor's wife. It was Easter Monday of 1889. The Colonist made mention: "The architect is Mr. John Teague, the contractors, Messrs. Elford and Smith; painter, Mr. R. Lettice; plasterer, Mr. John Drake, plumber, Messrs. Braden and Stamford.

"Mrs. Nelson was [illegible] by Mr. Wm. M. [illegible] hospital's [illegible] with a [illegible] of choice [illegible] was to have [illegible] made by the [illegible] the coat did not [illegible] few became [illegible] at the [illegible] faces . . .

"The stone [illegible] its place Mrs. Nelson [illegible] the required number of [illegible] with the [illegible] she declared it well and [illegible]

A few days after the duke opened the hospital, the directors appointed staff . . . at [illegible] road [illegible] charges.

The board . . . met the new secretary, Mr. Harry Yates . . . after careful consideration Dr. W. A. Richard . . . of Nova Scotia was unanimously elected to fill the position and resident medical officer. His salary is fixed at $150 per annum, with board [illegible] wife. He will [illegible] to be devoted to the duties of the hospital.

Miss McMurray of Kingston [illegible] salary of $50 per month and board. Miss Annie Campbell of [illegible] Victoria was appointed nurse at a salary of $30 a month, and board. This lady's ability is well known and the directors have undoubtedly taken a wise step in availing themselves of her services. Miss Annie Saunders was also appointed nurse at the same salary. She recently arrived from England, is a fully [illegible] and bring[illegible] highest testimonials to her ability from the Royal Infirmary, Truro, England."

Meanwhile a group of prominent and hard-working women were banding themselves into an organization that later became the women's auxiliary, one of the hospital's bulwarks through the years.

The events the women's auxiliary has held through all these 65 years would fill a book. The total of the money the women have raised for the hospital and its patients is staggering; the good they have done will never be completely known.

Here is one exciting event, in August of 1891:

"Nearly 400 excursionists crowded the palatial steamer Islander . . . for a ride to Seattle and back. The trip was the result of the efforts of the ladies composing the auxiliary committee of the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital, and was devoted as a benefit for that institution. Tickets were sold at $2 for the round trip . . .

MANAGER IN CHARGE

"The trip was a splendid success. The steamer returned to this city about midnight. Capt. John Irving, manager of the line, personally accompanied the party, and assumed command. The ladies were indefatigable, no more pleasant excursion has ever been made from this city."

Happy 65th birthday, Royal Jubilee Hospital—and may the ladies continue to work hard as, of course, they will, for your good.

Politics on Television Has Critics Yawning

LONDON (CP) — Britain's "TV election" reducing politics to a small grey image in 4,500,000 living rooms, has fought out its flickering first round without a decisive verdict either way.

The clash of the cathode rays started with a broadcast for the Conservatives by Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan. Broadly the newspapers panned it.

Then Opposition leader Clement Attlee spoke for Labor and they didn't think much of that either. If anything, Attlee had slightly the better of the battle.

Few thought a new TV star had been hatched or that many votes would be swing either way in the May 26 election.

Tourists Talk Turkey With Aid of Skrudrayt

BY HORACE SUTTON

ISTANBUL—Anybody can talk turkey in Turkey, especially with the help of a screwdriver.

A screwdriver is the local poison, a mixture of vodka and orange juice which everybody drinks here because a "viski soda" costs $2.50. And you get a shot, but what is the local way of saying it. Very easy too, especially after drinking one.

If you want to get from the sultan's palace to the edge of the Bosphorus where the ships come in just call a taksi. Naturally this won't be necessary if you have your own otomobil which is very spiffy especially if driven by a sofer.

For those who prefer cocktails as served here on the edge of Asia Istanbul offers the Aleksandra or the Seri kobler. Teetotalers will be happy with a limonata or Turkish coffee which comes in a thimble-sized cup half filled with coffee, half with coffee grounds and tastes like boiled topsoil.

Most tourists visit the Mosque of Suleiman the Magnificent a tremendous structure built in the 16th century when the Turkish influence had spread half way around the world and people were drinking boiled topsoil from Vienna to the China border.

The Blue Mosque built in the 17th century is the only mosque in the world with six minarets. Daylight streams in through 554 windows and the many-domed ceilings are covered with extraordinary blue and red tiles. Pigeons fly back and forth inside the mosque. If you want a wish to come true you feel a pigeon.

For lunch you might have doner kebab which is chips of lamb roasted on rod a salad bowl of fruits and vegetables and a cup of tea, a more specific butterhook.

Desserts are a Turkish delight kaymak which is heavy cream with pistachio nuts, or kadayf which is cinnamon toasted wheat strands with sugar or krem karkulat the state cream.

Prices of the salad days of [illegible] viewed at the seraglio [illegible] specimen of crystal sea salt, a casefy of cute boats sent from [illegible] to [illegible] books with [illegible] and amber necks encased with diamonds scimitars with emerald studded hilts, butter pats white tobans stuck with egret feathers.

From the balcony on the harem where unwanted girls were tossed to the sea you can look out to Florence Nightingales hospital now a barracks and to the trucks below that carry the Orient Express to London.

An London where a viski soda is served warm and a man with a screwdriver in his hands is working.

Unique Celebration

Peace Arch Program Interests Eisenhower

BLAINE, WASH. (AP)—President Eisenhower will send Nelson Rockefeller as his personal representative to festival international Peace Arch May 22 as Americans and Canadians celebrate 150 years of living together as good neighbors.

Eisenhower last night sent a telegram to Rockefeller asking him to attend the annual event. Also invited are personal greetings from the president and vice-president and Mrs. Nixon and Mrs. Eisenhower.

Representing the British government will be Alan S. Chant, minister of public works.

A special feature of the celebration, unique among events of its kind, will be the exchange of flags by 1,000 American and 1,000 Canadian school children.

In a "flowers for peace" ceremony veterans will place sprays of flowers at the base of the arch honoring Albert Anderson, 108 last living Union army veteran of the Civil War. He is in a Dublin, Ga., hospital. Canadian will permit this oldest veteran in a United States port to ride in an automobile.

Raising of the flags of the two countries will be a signal for a parade through the arch by units of the countries — Canadian veterans and auxiliaries, American veterans, Canadian and American Boy Scouts, [illegible] Girl Guides, Camp [illegible] Fire girls and other youth and school groups.

The peace arch was completed in 1921. There are other monuments between the countries but the celebration at Blaine is unique.

Politicians Seeing Red —Not Average Citizen

WASHINGTON (NANA) Politicians may be all excited about the entwined dangers from Communist conspiracy and anti-Communists undermining American liberty, but the people are not.

Of those interviewed less than 1 per cent were worried [illegible] The full story of the study as edited by Dr. Samuel A. Stouffer, Harvard University sociologist, has just been published under the title "Communism, Conformity and Civil Liberties." It is based on 6,000 detailed interviews conducted jointly by the Gallup Poll and the University of Chicago's opinion research centre.

Citizens were asked: "What kinds of things do you worry about most?"

Eighty per cent of the men and women interviewed had "worries" only in terms of personal and family problems. 43 per cent were worried about personal finances, i.e., "paying bills . . . keeping my job . . . [illegible] too fast . . . I won't be able to send my kids to college." 24 per cent had health worries.

Nation-wide only 8 per cent of those interviewed mentioned international affairs and the war threat, and at a time when Senator McCarthy was in the headlines, less than 1 per cent thought initially of either Communism or "McCarthyism" as a worry.

Though they are against them, American people seem confused as to the danger Communists threaten.

Eighty-one per cent of the people interviewed said Communists were "dangerous," of those most gave vague reasons. "They're out to take America . . . They're for Russia . . . they are awful people."

Three per cent said they had known a "certain" Communist and 10 per cent said they "thought" they knew one. Some of the latter gave such reasons as: "I saw a map of Russia on his wall . . . He didn't believe in Christ, heaven or hell . . . she distributes literature about the United Nations."

Animal Question Box

SPCA Inspector, New Chief Lauded

I am personally acquainted with Mr. Leach and I think they have made a most suitable [illegible] Dinsmore left the position of [illegible] Mr. Leach has all the qualifications [illegible] and I am sure he will be a success.

He is a genuine lover of animals and will, I am sure, prove more than equal to the task. He and Inspector Hayward should get along together to the benefit of all concerned, which is to say, mainly, for the benefit of the animals, who are really the first consideration of this society.

They Haywards are doing a good job, both Mr. and Mrs. There seems to be no dissension or bickering among the executive but the society still needs your support financially. I think that it would be an opportune time should we, as "open House" so that the general public and members may have a chance of meeting Mr. Leach.

EAR CLIPPING

A good neighbor of mine, Mrs. I. N., writes and asks me a question that I have not been asked since July, 1953, which is, in part, why should any dog have its ears clipped and then, being so mutilated, be shown at dog shows. There was more to her question than that, and I will answer the rest of it next week.

A I have never understood the necessity supposed of [illegible] dog any dog's ears. It is [illegible] a fact made that certain breeds look smarter with ears that are pointed and stand erect. There are a great many vets who refuse to perform such an operation and to those I say a hearty "Thanks Doc."

Thanks to the many kind people who responded to my request for an Airedale but I still [illegible] passed that information on to the lady concerned. [illegible] the time of year to enjoy birds.

Our two cats are having a wonderful time these days. Honeypot is losing more than her share of keeping down the weeds [illegible].

And Sweetstuff, who would not know how to catch a mouse if he saw one, known as the "mighty hunter," has already started his summer pastime of bringing garden snakes into the house to play with (my wife loves that—she has to rescue the reptiles and return them to the garden where they soon recover and slither away).

Which reminds me, does anyone want to give a kind home to a cute all-black kitten? City Needs New Industry To Save Ferry Service

BY HARRY YOUNG
(Colonist Business Editor)

The possibility that the inner harbor of Victoria may lose its identity as a commercial dock and become little more than a ferry slip for tourist traffic is becoming more and more of a probability.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has stated repeatedly as its final terms as it possibly can that its Victoria services depend almost entirely on summer tourist traffic.

Now there are rumors that the Black Ball Line which until the CPR installed a summer service two years ago was the one Victoria link with Port Angeles on the Olympic Peninsula will end that service.

Apparently the appearance of a second line of ships on this service has taken the gilt off the gingerbread and for some the route is a less attractive proposition than it used to be.

At the moment the CPR boat alone is covering the Victoria Port Angeles route and B.C. Forest Products built its plywood mill in 1952.

Up-Island the growth of the pulp and paper industry in the post-war period has altered the whole economy of the area while the Vancouver area has swept up most of the secondary industry some of which might have found a happy home in Victoria.

Despite this, Victoria is growing fast as a residential area. The once productive farm lands of Saanich are now being rapidly subdivided to provide new homes. There can be little doubt that a similar industrial and commercial development should be going along with this expansion.

Unless this happens the movement of freight will continue to be so hopelessly one-sided inward bound to Victoria that there must be an attractive proposition for the ferry operators.

An industrial development here alone can improve the two-way freight traffic prospect and so give the incentive for a better and faster service.

SETS PRECEDENT

A date for members of the Credit Granters Association of Victoria to remember is May 23. William J. Tate, president of the National Retail Credit Association of North America is to address the group at a luncheon meeting. Mr. Tate as general manager and comptroller of Chas. Ogilvie Ltd. of Ottawa is the first layman to be president of the association.

BIG FIRMS DO WELL

The U.S. Investment firm of Hayden, Stone reports that 45 per cent of all the corporation profits in the United States in 1954 were made by 44 leading corporations.

The top 44 companies made net profits of $ 5,000,000,000 among them and each made more than $100,000,000.

* * *

U.S. BUYS MORE

Aluminum Sales Ltd. expects to sell 22,000 tons of aluminum to its U.S. customers this year 15 per cent more than last year.

If however Black Ball draws out of Victoria, which everyone hopes it will not, then it might be that at the height of the tourist season the service between here and Port Angeles will not be adequate.

This would be unfortunate, but Victoria is not in a particularly good position to do anything about it.

The fact is that the ordinary Victoria passenger traffic is under the air route to Vancouver and Seattle and it looks to the water route only for special occasions or when bad weather halts flying.

Each year many travellers prefer to use the Nanaimo-Vancouver route where the car ferry service is fast and frequent.

L. C. A. the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, where the city's interest is paramount, there is a divergence of opinion as to what should be done.

Businessmen would like to see a fast all-year service between the peninsula and the Mainland which would bring business to the city but nothing which will destroy the frequency of sailings to and from Victoria at all.

As Nanaimo grows in importance as the distribution centre for Vancouver Island, Victoria is going to have to face up to realities.

The city certainly looked to be a white spot by which strong tourist flavor or it is going to have to revise its ideas about attracting new industry to the area.

The Greater Victoria area is not keeping its pace with the Vancouver area or even the more distant parts of Vancouver Island in its commercial development.

No major industry has come to Victoria since B.C.

United They Stand—for Election

Labor party disagreements seem forgotten as Clement Attlee, right, and Aneurin Bevan join forces on their election campaign in Britain. Bevan was expelled from the party by Attlee and the other leaders of labor, but his expulsion was reversed by the rank and file. They are now appearing on public platforms together as the election campaign nears its climax. (Central Press Canadian)

'Arbitrary' Assessment

Retailers Protesting Retroactive Tax Bite

VANCOUVER (CP) — The provincial government's policy and method of "arbitrarily reassessing" the collection of sales tax by stores and merchants is forcing some businesses near ruin spokesmen for the Retail Merchants Association of B.C. said Saturday.

Spokesmen for the two groups said government assessors are going back as far as six years over the operations of merchants and demanding lump sums claiming they are sales tax receipts due the government and never paid to Victoria.

Chris Boulton, RMA manager, said his association is investigating the problem.

F. H. Fullerton, secretary of the pharmaceutical association said his group has already submitted a brief to Premier Bennett protesting the situation.

The spokesmen said assessors arbitrarily look up a store's sales during any given month, base the firm's annual sales on that volume and assess the store for tax receipts accordingly.

They said that in some areas the assessors used October, November and December, brisk business months because of the Christmas shopping rush—as the base month.

German Industrialists Consider Second Mill

VANCOUVER (CP) — Delegates to West Germany's pulp and paper industry convention will visit Vancouver Island Sept. 4 to inspect the site of a second pulp and paper development there, Max Ell. Meyer, president of Canadian Western Pulp Mills Ltd., announced here today.

Mr. Meyer said the group will be guests of the board of directors of Canadian Western Pulp Mills.

Mr. Meyer is on the first visit to Canada from Munchen-Gladbach, West Germany, to supervise the $6,000,000 Port Alberni mill. He is looking at the site and other possibilities in Canada.

Mr. Meyer said he and other delegates to the pulp and paper convention

BY ROY FARRETT

Hardly a month goes by without a revolutionary "new" television antenna appearing on the market, designed to make all existing aerials "things of the past."

All are based on the same principle — hardly a scientific one, at that.

Main's objection to that costly, outdoor, rooftop TV aerial is the main factor in their development.

The companies which make these gadgets take advantage of human nature.

Millions of dollars are poured down the drain to purchase gimmicks with pickup equal to discarded coathangers.

Recently a leading American electronics magazine tested 24 "miracle wonders." advertised as "just as good" as roof aerials.

Every one was found to be an out-and-out fake.

Most consisted of a length of ordinary TV lead-in wire which terminated in a plastic box or "sandwich."

Inside the plastic container was a piece of wire, screen, or perhaps a condenser costing a few pennies.

"Barring the remote possibility of some new discovery in radio propagation, it would seem reasonable to suppose that these 'miracle' antennas should work almost as well as simple pieces of wire of similar dimensions," the magazine reported, following the tests.

BATTLE OF ATLANTIC SUNDAY — The Royal Canadian Navy will mark today with appropriate ceremonies on CBUT. A memorial service at Christ Church Cathedral in Vancouver will be seen at 10.45 this morning.

* * *

ATOMIC TESTS — A special hour-long edition of Adventure, dealing with nuclear physics and the recent oft-postponed atom bomb blast at Yucca Flats, Nevada, will be presented on CBUT this afternoon.

Viewers will see the blast, and its effects on the doomed village, built for the test, first-hand on today's spectacular program.

BRIDGE QUIZ

When you open the bidding, you set the machinery in motion, having made certain guarantees about rebidding in the event that your partner makes a one-round forcing response. You cannot always plan exactly how the bidding will go, so on hands that are compulsory opening bids nut are not extremely strong you may occasionally find a difficult choice confronting you.

In today's quiz you have opened the bidding with one heart and you might have either of the following hands:

(1) ♠ Q 5 4 3 ♡ A Q 9 7 2 ◇ A J 8 ♣ 8

(2) ♠ J 2 ♡ A Q 9 7 ◇ J 8 5 3 ♣ A 10 8

What do you (South) bid with each of these hands if the bidding proceeds in accordance with the following diagrams?

(a)

1 ♡	1 ♠	2 ♣	Pass

(b)

1 ♡	2 ♣	Dbl.	Pass

(c)

1 ♡	2 ♣	2 ◇	Pass

(d)

(e)

1 ♡	1 ♠	Dbl.	Pass
Pass	2 ♣	2 ◇	Pass

(f)

1 ♡	Pass	1 N.T.	Pass

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE JUIZ

(a) With hand (1), bid two hearts. It would be a great mistake to bid two no-trump with your flimsy spade stopper in spite of your four cards in the suit. Your misfit with partner's clubs means you will not be able to develope his suit at no-trump; hence, your tricks will have to come from the heart suit if North can support them—in which case you probably have a safer game at hearts. With hand (2) bid three clubs. This isn't a comfortable bid, but you haven't much choice. Partner's free bid of two clubs shows a pretty good hand, and forces you to rebid.

(b) With hand (1), bid two hearts. A double of two clubs is co-operative; you should not leave it in unless you are well prepared to furnish good defence—not true of this hand, in view of your minimum bid and your singleton club. With hand (2), pass.

(c) With hand (1), bid three diamonds. This is a somewhat more encouraging bid than two hearts, and is based on the increased valuation of your hand in support of partner's diamond bid. With hand (2), the same three-diamond bid is a clearer choice.

(d) With hand (1), bid three spades. You don't really want to play the hand at spades, but with a good fit you may have a slam and three spades will make your next bid easier, Jepending upon partner's rebid. With hand (2) bid three no-trump. You have a bare minimum and if partner's hand is also balanced, no-trump may be the best spot. If not, he will bid again.

(e) With hand (1) bid two spades. It would seem likely that if partner can double a one-spade bid that the bid was a bluff and you and North have the spade suit. With hand (2) raise to three diamonds. Partner's two diamond response is forcing in the same way as it would have been if it had been his first response to your opening bid.

(f) With hands (1) and (2), pass. Hand (2) is balanced, and affords no possible rebid; hand (1) might play better at hearts but you aren't strong enough to rebid because partner might take any rebid, even a minimum repeat in hearts, as an encouraging sign. It is out of the question for you to bid spades for two reasons: If partner had a biddable spade suit, he would have prefered showing it to bidding one no-trump; a reverse at the two level would indicate a much stronger hand than you hold, since it might force partner to chose by going back to hearts at the three level.

Daredevil Seeks Balancing Title

TORONTO (BUP) — Harry Davis, a 37-year-old Yugoslavian daredevil, announced Saturday he will try to balance on a tight wire at Maple Leaf Stadium for 48 hours next week.

Davis, who came to Canada last October, said the wire will be stretched 60 feet above the ground from the east end of the stadium to a mast.

He said the feat shouldn't [illegible] he'll also balance a table and chair on the wire and eat his meals in the air. He plans to start at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Davis claimed that he once stayed on a tight wire 60 hours to set "a record for all Europe." He produced press clippings to prove he rode a motorcycle on a wire 3,000 feet above ground in the Swiss Alps.

"You apparently have no records at all in North America," he said. "I will get some."

Davis hopes to get commercial backing for the stunt, but if not, he will do it for the publicity.

The daredevil, originally from Maribore, Yugoslavia, has worked at his unusual trade in Germany, Austria, Hungary, Switzerland and Romania. He started 20 years ago when he was 17 simply because he had "a yen to be a daredevil," he said.

He said success of the stunt depends on mental concentration, and denied he would use drugs to keep him awake during the 48-hour vigil.

Daily Astrology - - BY RITA DEL MAR

SUNDAY, MAY 15, 1955

Today's quotation: "To handle yourself, use your head; to handle others, use your heart." —Donald Laird.

Sunday for everyone:- Be friendly particularly during the evening. However, be careful to maintain poise in dealings with others; avoid complications. Do not get involved in anything impractical. Rest, relax.

Look for your birthdate and birthsign below:

March 21 to April 19 (Aries) —Acknowledge the necessity for greater selflessness in order to grapple successfully with difficulties.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus) —Steer clear of current stress and strain; there may be some chaotic doings; don't be drawn into them.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini) —Preserve your equilibrium if the atmosphere is somewhat electric now. Be tactful with higher ups.

More Defence Employees Get Shorter Work Week

Five-day, 40-hour week has been granted to another group of defence workers in Greater Victoria as efforts continue to make the shorter work week universal for the 1,500 Vancouver Island employees of the department of national defence.

Two officials of the National Defence Employees Association said here yesterday approximately 40 of the stationary engineers and firemen at HMCS Naden, HMC Dockyard, Royal Roads and Work Point Barracks will start a five-day week June 1.

James Bryant, national vice-president, and J. E. Carey, provincial vice-president, were notified by the Civil Service Federation of Canada that an order-in-council had been passed making the change effective across Canada.

However, a 5½-day, 44-hour week will continue for engineers and firemen in federal government hospitals, messes, farms, jails, parks and those municipal centers where the six-day week is still in effect generally in industry.

Mr. Carey and Mr. Bryant said the only association members in this area who will not get the shorter work week are mess employees.

At an executive meeting in Ottawa next week, they will "push the 40-hour week" for [illegible] and mess maids, who now work 48 hours.

Scout Bulbs Light Way to Jamboree

A unique "bag of bulbs" campaign will be staged soon by Victoria Lions Club, Boy Scouts and Scout leaders on southern Vancouver Island to help send 42 boys from the area to the world Scout jamboree in August.

E. A. Estlin, past president of the Lions Club, who is chairman of the campaign and a Scout committee, said yesterday the two-week drive will begin shortly after the Victoria Day holiday.

"People have been smashing light bulbs around their homes all winter," he said. "The drive will enable them to fill the empty sockets and light a Scout's way to the jamboree."

Mr. Estlin said 17,000 bags are due here Tuesday or Wednesday and first shipments of 150,000 light bulbs to be sold will arrive two days later.

COST $2

Each bag will contain three 40-watt bulbs, four 60-watt bulbs and two 100-watt bulbs, and will sell for $2.

Major portion of receipts will go into an $8,000 fund to send 42 Scouts and seven Scout leaders to the jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., first meeting of its kind to be held in Canada. Officials expect 10,000 Scouts from 60 nations to attend.

Scouts and their leaders will visit every one of the 38,250 residential users of electricity from Jordan River to Sidney. They will take orders and Lions will deliver the light bulbs "within a week."

LARGER SCALE

Mr. Estlin said there will be 1,500 canvassers in the drive, which will be of larger scale than a similar campaign held in New York City recently to aid blind persons.

Scout groups have already contributed toward the fund. Part of the receipts from the campaign will be allocated to Lions Club charities.

Good Wishes Not Enough for Weather

Good wishes of Colwood Magistrate Bert Thomas, right, weren't enough to subdue 20-mile-an-hour winds which again last night forced a last-minute cancellation of swimmer Bert Thomas' latest attempt to swim Juan de Fuca Strait. The two Bert Thomases were pictured with their wives (the magistrate's wife is on the left) as the swimmer put in an appearance yesterday at the Shrine bazaar in the curling rink. The coincidence in names goes even further. Wives of the swimmer and the magistrate are both named Mary.

Boy Spots Distress Signal

Party Stranded in Boat As Winds Cancel Swim

Alderman Ashore, Rest Await Rescue

A small boy, Gordon James, who saw a flashing light "way off the shore" gave the first alarm of a 40-foot cabin cruiser, believed to be the Ro-Max, ashore off Dallas road with five or more persons aboard.

Gordon, 13, who was on the beach about 11 p.m. watching for Bert Thomas to make his swim attempt to Port Angeles, saw the flashing light and rushed up to the road when he realized the boat was stopped and probably in trouble.

"I saw the lights flashing and I saw the boat wasn't moving, so I ran for it up the stairs,' he told The Daily Colonist. "Me and a man. We stopped a police car that was going by."

Gordon, who lives at 132 Dallas, thought he could hear vices from the boat. Later a Colonist reporter heard a voice plainly calling: "Hurry up, hurry up." That was about 11.40 p.m.

Meanwhile, Ald. Don Smith, who was a passenger aboard, brought one of the guests, a young woman, ashore in an eight-foot skiff.

"It was a rough trip," he told reporters.

He and the woman, both wearing life-jackets, were soaked to the skin.

"I don't want to give my name," the woman said.

At midnight, following advice from the Colonist, the Island Tug & Barge Co. decided to dispatch the Island Ranger to the assistance of the craft. At that time someone was still flashing distress signals.

It is believed at least three other Victoria men are aboard: James Sewell, understood to be the owner of the boat; Roy Hills and Spencer Huston.

B.C. Pilotage Authority called in a boat from Race Rocks at 11.30 to go to the help of the stranded craft.

The Island Ranger was not expected to reach the wreck until about 1 a.m.

At press time the stranded craft was still signalling and hard ashore in a falling tide.

Hugh Evans, Bert Thomas' navigator, in the Water Tourist, was attempting to go alongside the Ro-Max at 12.10 a.m.

One Queen to Another

Newly-crowned Queen Mardi Campbell, seven, who reigned as first lady of the Shrine Bazaar held last night in the curling rink, graciously accepts a bouquet of flowers from Miss Victoria, Doreen Wells. She thanked Miss Wells and wished her good luck in the Miss Canada contest. Queen Mardi's escort was Gordon Callow, eight, impeccably tailored in tails and top hat. (See Page 17.)

RCMP Hold Bank Robber

Most-Wanted Criminal Captured In Stolen Fish Boat at Alert Bay

William Allen Babcock, one of Canada's most wanted criminals since his daring escape from Oakalla last March, was captured last night aboard a stolen boat at Alert Bay.

WILLIAM BABCOCK

It was reported from Campbell River that the 34-year-old bank robber was captured by the RCMP at 9.30 p.m.

IN CUSTODY

RCMP here said Babcock was taken into custody by the Alert Bay detachment after he reached there aboard the Sea Explorer, the $10,000 troller-type boat stolen from Bendickson Logging Company at Hardwick Island early this week.

Babcock became the object of an intensive manhunt when he escaped from Oakalla on a Sunday in March by walking out of the jail with a visiting choir.

Babcock was in Oakalla awaiting transfer to the B.C. Penitentiary. He had been sentenced to 20 years and 21 lashes for his part in a three-man $27,900 holdup January 13 of a Burnaby branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. The sentence was one of the heaviest in B.C. legal history.

REWARD

A painstaking search for the 31-foot Sea Explorer was launched this week when the Bendickson company offered a $300 reward for its recovery. All B.C. Airlines pilots flying over the islands out of Campbell River kept a constant lookout for the missing craft.

The boat was recovered by RCMP in Sullivan Bay, near Alert Bay.

Jim Bendickson said a man came to the logging camp May 2 in a speedboat, begging for gas for a trip to Alaska. When the Sea Explorer was stolen he immediately suspected this man of being the thief.

Eat Your Troubles Away

Fatigue, Pallor Mean Blood Lacks Strength

Those who are undernourished and don't realize it will find a guide to better health and greater vigor in "Eat Your Troubles Away," latest work by Lelord Kordel, researcher and lecturer on nutrition, appearing regularly in The Daily Colonist.

BY LELORD KORDEL

After a long, hard, trying day, you more or less expect an occasional feeling of "being beat." This is known as "normal fatigue." But when, after a leisurely week-end or holiday, you fail to recover your bounce—and this fatigue persists—you must investigate it.

Its causes vary. However, if your fatigue is accompanied by symptoms of skin pallor, you can in most cases point the finger of suspicion at anemia.

Unfortunately, most anemic persons do not have the slightest inkling of the real cause of their irking fatigue; and even those who are aware of their condition do not realize they can correct it by a few simple changes in their eating habits.

You might say that anemia is a modern disease. It has come with white-bread sandwiches and white sugar. The greatest causes of iron-deficiency anemia are the refined flours, the vitamin-robbed cereals, the denatured white sugars, and other devitalized products in fancy packages.

The "old-fashioned foods" kept normal adults supplied with the 4,000 milligrams of iron needed in the body. Over half of this amount is demanded by hemoglobin, the blood's red coloring matter. The rest of the iron is stored in the liver, spleen and bone marrow; it is a vital part of every body cell. The body's iron level is adjusted according to the manner and amount of iron absorption.

In a normal adult's bloodstream more than 7,000,000 red blood cells die, and must be renewed, every second.

So important a raw material is iron in the building of new cells that the body uses the iron of the red blood cells over and over again as an air-conditioning system utilizes its original water supply.

More Minerals

In addition to iron, healthy red blood cells demand proteins, the ever-important B vitamins, the minerals iodine, cobalt and copper.

You should eat lots of liver, but there are other ways of getting iron through your foods.

Parsley, which can be used to enrich salads, contains 19.21 milligrams of iron in about 100 parsley sprigs, the "bunch" you would buy in the grocery store.

Many popular foods are rich sources of iron. Mushrooms contain 16.10 milligrams per seven mushrooms; one small yam, 7.40 milligrams. Dried fruits are rich iron sources; one medium peach will provide 6.5 milligrams.

But none of these foods measure up to the 21.70 milligrams of iron found in one average piece of calf's liver. This food, by the way, can be made very palatable and nourishing by taking it directly from the refrigerator, dotting it with butter, and broiling it.

These are iron-rich foods:

Animal origin—Liver of all kinds, lamb, egg yolks, heart, kidney, lean beef, dark poultry meat.

Vegetable origin—Apricots, unsulphured molasses, sunflower and millet seeds, peaches, prunes, artichokes, lettuce, whole-grain cereals, dried beans, dried peas, raisins, apples, beet tops, leeks, radishes, berries, corn, grapes, lemons, oranges, pineapple, whole rye, lentils, pumpkin, walnuts, onions, pears, pomegranates, currants.

Swim Halted At Last Moment

Bert Thomas called off his swim ten minutes before zero hour last night, after he was greased ready to go into the water, while thousands watched along the shore.

NO SOAP

The husky Tacoma swimmer was chatting with newsmen and telling them he wasn't nervous, when Dave Evans, brother of navigator Hugh Evans, burst into the tent and said: "Hugh says no soap, Bert."

"I'll try so hard I'll be sick," Bert said. "The people will say Thomas didn't have enough guts to go in the water. I think I'll go."

His friends crowded around him and advised the swimmer, "It's too rough. Captain Evans says it's too tough."

"He left it up to me," Bert replied. "It's pretty hard to decide in five minutes. I have waited four months."

NO ENCOURAGEMENT

He stepped out of the tent and stood in silence for about three minutes, dressed only in his trunks.

Not one person gave him any encouragement to make the swim, but plenty tried to talk him out of it.

"Well, I want to make it across, Captain Evans says it's off, so it's off. I haven't even seen the wafer today, but I can hear it, and it's rough." The waves were breaking on the shore just 10 feet away but the crowd was so thick Bert could not see the water.

"Better tell them it's all off. It's too rough. I don't think I will have a chance again for another four months."

A loud cheer went up from the crowd as Bert walked from the tent.

"You're chicken," one of the spectators shouted, but he was in the minority. Bert was angry at the charge.

"Don't worry, there isn't anyone readier than I am," Bert said. "Next time I come down here I hope nobody is here and I just go in."

His wife, Mary, was bitterly disappointed at the cancellation and sobbed as she climbed the bank laden with bottles and goose grease.

Bert said the swim attempts had cost him $5,000 since last fall, "and more than that if you count what I would have earned."

New Try In August

Bert Thomas told The Daily Colonist after his navigator's decision to call off the attempt to swim the Juan de Fuca Strait last night that he would try again in August.

"I'll do it," he said. "I'll do it yet."

Molotov Pledges

Russia Will Join In Summit Talks

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Russia's V. M. Molotov promised at a dinner meeting with Western foreign ministers Saturday night that the Soviet Union will join in a Big Four power conference at the topmost level in an effort to reach an East-West settlement.

The so-called "meeting at the summit" would bring together President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Bulganin, British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Faure some time in the summer.

The four foreign ministers thus capped an accord reached earlier in the day when they approved in 80 minutes the text of a treaty restoring to Austria her freedom and independence after 17 years of occupation. It had taken 10 post-war years to negotiate the treaty.

An official British spokesman said early Sunday Molotov, U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay reached a "general agreement on the purposes and methods of operation" of the meeting at the summit.

The Western powers in a note last week suggested the meeting of Eisenhower, Bulganin, Eden and Faure.

The spokesman said Molotov probably will send a note — possibly this week-end — formally accepting the invitation.

The time and place have not yet been decided.

To the surprise of his colleagues, informants said, Molotov at no time pressed for Red China representation at the conference.

The four did not discuss an agenda for the meeting.

The four ministers agreed that if they are all present at the 10th UN birthday ceremonies being organized for late June in San Francisco they would discuss further arrangements for the conference.

Queen Crawls After Pins To Protect Royal Children

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II stars in a story told over tipped tea-cups in London this week:

A West End hatmaker dispatched a salesgirl to Buckingham Palace with a selection of summer beauties the Queen said she wanted to see. There was a slight delay, for Elizabeth at the moment was trying on dresses.

When she was eventually shown in, the salesgirl was startled to see the Queen crawling around on her hands and knees picking up pins.

"Come in, my dear," the Queen said. "You can't be too careful when you've got children around the house."

Accent on Homemaking

Wants Church Included

Lovely Sunday School Teacher Named Mrs. America

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Ramona Deitemeyer, a lovely blue-eyed blonde Sunday school teacher, PTA president and mother of five became Mrs. America of 1956 Saturday.

Her voice trembling with excitement, one of the first things Mrs. Deitemeyer said was: "I want the title to mean two things: First that the job of homemaking will be kept on a terrifically high plane and next that my church can be part of the title."

Mrs. Deitemeyer teaches the second grade Sunday school class in Christ Lutheran Church of her home town of Lincoln, Neb., where her husband, Carl, edits the Nebraska Farmer Magazine and is chairman of the church congregation.

For the first time in the 17 years of the Mrs. America contest there was no bathing suit competition. It was all homemaking.

The 35-year-old winner proved her homemaking skill to the judges even before she was picked as America's No. 1 housewife by winning two preliminary awards; one for the best dinner menu and the other for keeping the neatest and cleanest vials along Mrs. America drive.

Six entrants made the finals.

When the public address system boomed out the word all had been waiting for, the ones that meant $15,000 worth of prizes to the winner, Mrs. Deitemeyer's knees weakened and she almost slumped down. But attendants quickly led her to a red carpet to the throne on the stage built on the ocean beach.
